TAX OR DEBT QUESTION PUT BY PRESIDENT

CHIEF REMAINS CRYPTIC

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 25—President Roosevelt sat in his Pine Mountain cottage today and waited reaction to two statements he uttered at Warm Springs.

In serious vein, the president had called on the country to decide whether it wanted to pay additional taxes to meet extraordinary national defense needs, or whether it preferred to borrow the money and shift the ultimate burden on future generations.

Possibly in a less serious vein, Mr. Roosevelt had made another cryptic remark which was capable of interpretation as a hint he would not be a third term candidate. In recent days he has warned reporters he makes such remarks deliberately to watch the political forecasters bite on them. In his press conferences, he waves aside direct questions on the subject of 1940.

To Meet Senators

Atlanta newspapers were speculating keenly on the scheduled courtesy call today at the "Little White House" of the Georgia congressional delegation. Rep. Vinson, as dean, made the appointment with the president. It was reported in advance that Senator Walter F. George would not accompany his colleague, Junior Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr. In the 1938 senatorial campaign, the president tried unsuccessfully to "purge" George for his opposition to the supreme court enlargement proposal.

It was noted, however, that Rep. Cox, consistent anti-New Dealer, would be in the group which will (Continued on Page Eight)

LONDON SHOCKED BY BLASTS OF IRISH BUBBLERS

LONDON, Nov. 25—Nicknamed "Irish bubblers" by the public, acid balloon bombs allegedly placed by members of the Irish Republican Army today caused four explosions in the west end Oxford Street shopping district.

I.R.A. terrorists, police charged, cruised about in automobile planting the bombs in telephone booths and one police telephone box.

No one was hurt, but sand bags piled up for air raid protection were hurled into the street.

The bombs are made of an explosive which blasts when the acid seeps through its rubber covering.

Approach Of Winter Should Remind You Of Chores To Be Done

Winter precautions as "red flannel time" approaches

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25—The Greeks had several words of explanation for that which may be expected almost any day now in the way of weather.

According to their legend, Pluto, boss of the underworld, took Persephone to his domain for a several months' visit every year, and all nature mourned while she was below ground.

Pluto is likely to come for Persephone any time, which is another way of saying that the time for red flannels, chilblains and snow flurries is fast approaching.

The big black bears are looking about for nice, comfortable hollow logs in which to spend the winter. Squirrels and field mice are searching for warm quarters—and these signs should serve as a reminder to Mr. Average Householder that he has several duties to perform if he hasn't already done so.

Plug Up the Holes

Are there any holes under the eaves or above the foundation line which squirrels or mice may find convenient for entry? Better plug them.

While you're at it, the dead leaves should be cleared out of the eaves and roof gutters to prevent destructive freezing of stagnant water during the winter. And the roof should be inspected. There may be some loose shingles to nail down so the howling winds won't drive snow and sleet right into the attic.

The department of commerce estimates that three-quarters of a billion dollars is spent annually in this country for repairs and maintenance work on residences, and a considerable portion of this money is used to get homes ready

HEDY AND M.G.M. PATCH UP WAGE DIFFICULTY

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25—Hey Lamarr, the Viennese film beauty, and the Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer studios have called off their salary and contract feud.

Hedy was reported back to the studios today, thus ending her several-week long battle with the studios over contractual differences.

MOVIE UNION READY TO CALL GENERAL STRIKE

Walkout Near As Producers Declare Inability To Boost Wages

THEATRES MAY BE HIT

Leader Of Dissenters Held
As Alleged Evader Of Prison Sentence

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25—Threatening to paralyze the motion picture industry, a strike which would close Hollywood studios and virtually every film theatre in America and Canada appeared imminent today.

Through Joseph Schenck, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, the announcement was made that the producers would not grant a 10 percent wage increase to some 35,000 studio workers.

And in reply to this, William Bioff, chairman of the conference of studio unions, which includes 27 organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, declared that unless the demands for the raise are met today, a general strike would be called, affecting theatres as well as studios.

Negotiations End

The negotiations between producers and labor union representatives ended suddenly yesterday in Schenck's offices, both sides apparently deadlocked.

As the meeting ended, Schenck took occasion to flatly deny that the producers were responsible for action taken by Chicago authorities causing Bioff's arrest in Hollywood on charge that he evaded imprisonment on a conviction for pandering in Chicago in 1922.

"The producers wish to assert," he declared, "in the most emphatic terms that they are not responsible directly or indirectly, as reputedly charged by him, for his present personal predicament, and they resent the imputations that they would resort to any such method."

Bioff, meanwhile, surrendered to local police and was almost immediately freed on $1,000 bail.

Bioff Angered

Declaring his arrest was caused in an effort to embarrass him and hinder negotiations for a wage increase for the studio workers he represents, Bioff declared he intended to fight extradition.

He will appear in court to face the Chicago charges on December 12.

"This is just a frameup and plot to discredit and embarrass me," he said angrily. "I think the producers are responsible for it. But if they think they are going to make me the goat of an attempt to deprive the 35,000 union members of their right to fair wages, they are mistaken."

HUNTER CARRIES COCKED GUN AND FRIEND IS SHOT

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25—Wounded when the 12-gauge shotgun in the hands of a companion accidentally discharged while they were hunting near Columbus, 16-year-old Leonard Curtis was in critical condition today in University Hospital.

The youth was struck in the groin by shotgun pellets when, sheriff's deputies said, the gun of Robert Davis, also 16, discharged as he stumbled. Davis, the report stated, was hunting with a cocked gun.

The sheriff's office said a further investigation would be made into the shooting, most serious of the season in Franklin County.

NEW RUMANIAN CABINET TAKES UP BIG PEACE TASK

BUCHAREST, Nov. 25—Rumania's new cabinet, faced with the task of maintaining the country's neutrality, today took up its work under the leadership of the veteran George Tatarescu.

Grigore Gafencu remains as foreign minister, and he will have to deal with German demands for increased supplies of Rumanian oil.

Sworn in by King Carol, Tatarescu said the aims of the government would be to "organize the material and military forces of the country in the interests of national defense and the maintenance of strict neutrality."

King Carol expressed the hope that these aims would be "fully realized."

DEAD RABBITS SAVE HUNTER

WASHINGTON C. H., Nov. 25—Two dead rabbits today were credited with saving the life of Harold Thompson, 27-year-old Fayette County farmer.

Thompson bagged the rabbits while hunting with 17-year-old Earl Knisley. He placed them in the game pocket of his hunting coat and the pair continued their hunt.

A few minutes later, Knisley fired wildly at a running rabbit. The shot struck the rabbits in Thompson's coat, tearing them to pieces. Only a small portion of the charge penetrated the coat, causing Thompson a painful but not serious hip wound.

It was the fourth hunting accident of the season in Fayette County. Two of the others proved fatal.

STATE CAPITAL SAFE FROM RED INVADING ARMY

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25—The city of Columbus, bone of contention in the field maneuvers of the Ohio National Guard, was "safe" today after a defending "blue" army drove off the attacking "red" forces.

Scouting patrols of the defending divisions "discovered" the advance of the "enemy," and troops and artillery—in this case 24 75-millimeter guns—were wheeled into position and, repulsed the assault.

Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, commanding officer of the forces engaged in the field, expressed himself well satisfied with the maneuvers.

"It was very valuable, particularly for the artillery," he commented. "It was as much advanced over summer training as college is over high school."

The five-day training period, to end Sunday, was ordered by the war department to supplement the regular National Guard program of 48 annual home-station drills and two weeks summer camp.

Maneuvers similar to those conducted at Columbus were under way at Camp Perry, Xenia, St. Marys, Athens and Cincinnati.

LOCAL GIRLS SURRENDER AFTER SCHOOL FLIGHT

Two Circleville girls who escaped Thursday from the Girls' Industrial School at Delaware reported to police headquarters about 3 a. m. Saturday to be returned to the institution.

They were Ethel Mace, 19, and Augusta Ramsey Brown, 19. They told Frank Goff, county juvenile officer, they had hitch-hiked to the northern part of the state after leaving Delaware then came to Circleville.

Both were dressed in light weight clothing and told the officer the weather was "too cold for traveling."

ENERGY, CASH SPENT ON KUHN OVER-EXPENDED

FIVE COUNTS DISMISSED

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—The energy and money which the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey put into assembling an elaborate larceny and forgery case against Fritz Kuhn appeared today to have been over-expended.

From a wordy 10-count indictment, alleging larceny and forgery of $5,461, the case against the Fuehrer of the German-American Bund had boiled down to a certain three counts claiming a total larceny of $500 and a possible two counts with an additional alleged theft of $717 in bond funds.

Dewey's office worked for months assembling material for the prosecution. A detective was sent to Miami to strike up a friendship with Mrs. Florence Camp—Kuhn's one-time "golden angel"—and stayed there eight weeks at a hotel. Prosecutor Herman McCarthy went to Miami and stayed four or five days. Later both of them returned to Miami for another four or five days stay.

Mrs. Camp Financed

The district attorney's office financed Mrs. Camp's trip north from Miami and set her up in swank New York hotels under assumed names before installing her in a Long Island apartment under an alias. It brought bund members from Los Angeles, Chicago, and other places at state expense.

It took almost three weeks to present its case and it took Judge James G. Wallace an hour and a half to throw five counts, reserve decision until Monday on two, and sustain three (the three with the $500 total).

"No member of the bund even to this day has complained against Kuhn," the court noted. "Not a single member of the bund has complained."

The court has also observed that while the state charged Kuhn must have stolen money he did not deposit in the bund's bank account "no proof has been offered by the state as to what he did with the money or the dates he failed to deposit it."

Poor Bookkeeper

When McCarthy suggested that the deposits should have been made during a certain period, Judge Wallace sputtered: "That is highly indefinite—no such indictment ever has been sustained in this jurisdiction."

"It's just too bad if the people (Continued on Page Eight)"

LOVE NOT JUST CLOSING WORD OF TELEGRAMS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25—"Love"—that's the great, most expressive word in the English language today.

And if you don't believe it, ask any member of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast which is holding its 41st annual meeting at the University of Southern California.

"It's the word 'love' and 'love' alone, that is filled with biological significance, according to Dr. Louis Wann, who heads the society. It's the one word that uplifts humanity."

"It is also a most gracious and inspiring word," said Dr. Wann.

"It's a swell word, really," he added.

Whereupon the society took up discussion of the word "swell," and decided that it was all right, too. So is "bunk" and "shark." All these colloquialisms are just dandy, Dr. Wann decreed, because they give color to the language.

ENGAGEMENT of Raymond

Ickes, son of the secretary of the interior and an assistant United States attorney in Chicago, and Miralotta L. Sauer, daughter of Dr. Louis W. Sauer of Winnetka, Ill., has been announced. The couple will wed December 16. Miss Sauer is a graduate of Northwestern University.

U. S. DESTROYER GOES AGROUND OFF CAPE HENRY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—The naval destroyer Yarnell, a recon-ditioned World War destroyer of 1,200 tons, is aground off Cape Henry, Va., but is in no danger, the navy department and coast guard headquarters announced today.

The destroyer, which has a normal complement of 100 men, dragged her anchor, according to the coast guard, and went aground on a sandy shoal at 4 a. m.

The coast guard cutter Calypso was ordered to the scene and, upon arriving shortly after 5 a. m., found the Yarnell in no danger.

Coast guard authorities in Washington said they hoped the ship could be pulled off the shoal by a towline as soon as the tide rises.

The mishap, occurred in Lynhaven Roads, about three miles off Cape Henry.

Coast guard officials explained that the craft is inside the capes, and not in the open sea.

BASKETBALL ORIGINATOR NEAR DEATH IN KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 25—Dr. James Naismith, 78, originator of basketball, was near death again today. Rallied from a cerebral hemorrhage he returned to his home Wednesday from a hospital only to suffer a severe heart attack.

His physical was dubious about Dr. Naismith's chance of recovery. The aged physical education professor at the University of Kansas, devised basketball while teaching at the Springfield, Mass., Y.M.C.A. college to occupy students during the winter months.

Asked if he had signed the $2,500,000 bond to which his name was affixed, Willie stammered: "Why, I didn't have a cent when I signed that."

BERLIN HURT BY IRON BLOCKADE, BRITISH CLAIM

Capture By English Denied
In Germany—Hunger War
Brings Protests

LONDON, Nov. 25—President Roosevelt's expression of hope at Warm Springs Thursday that the European war would be over by spring was reported today to be based on information circulating in high diplomatic circles in London.

This belief, it was said, is founded on neutral opinion that the Anglo-French "war of waiting" will have a double result:

First—Slow strangulation of Germany by the iron blockade of her imports and exports. The blockade, it was asserted, already is wearing down the morale of the Germans.

Second—Germany will be brought close to the starvation point within six months, and probably will crack internally if she suffers a single major defeat on air, land, or sea.

Ship Loss Denied

BERLIN, Nov. 25—The pocket battleship Deutschland remains in German hands, it was officially stated today.

London rumors of the Reich warship's capture were spread, it was said, for two reasons:

First, to counteract the shock resulting from damage to the British cruiser Belfast, and Second, to endeavor to maneuver the Reich into revealing whereabouts of the Deutschland.

The same sources, it was recalled here, asserted the Deutschland was sunk two weeks ago.

By International News Service
Economic warfare, with its long-range planning and meticulous execution, is less dramatic than the shot and shell of the battlefield—but it kills just the same, and today the Anglo-French Allies and Germany settled down to a starvation fight which brought vigorous protests from neutral nations.

No New Sinkings

Late morning reports brought no news of fresh ship sinkings after a week in which more than a score of merchantmen were sent to the bottom of the North Sea by U-boats and mines.

Yet Britain tightened her blockade, concentrating on the use of surface craft, as King George's ministers prepared an order-in-council to be issued probably Tuesday, giving effect to England's decision that German exports as well as imports are to be seized, whether carried by Reich or neutral vessels.

JANITOR LEARNS HE NEED NOT PAY $2,500,000 DEBT

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—William Cooper, an aged apartment house porter to whom $30 a week was big money, was relieved to learn today that he won't have to pay $2,500,000 to satisfy a mortgage now in default.

In fact Cooper never knew he had signed the bond which compelled him to pay $2,500,000 on demand until he appeared as a government witness against the defunct New York Title and Mortgage Company and four of its former officials charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud in the sale of "guaranteed" mortgages.

During 1930 and 1931 while he worked in the mortgage concern as a $30 a week clerk, Cooper frequently was confronted with documents in an official's office and told "Willie, sign here."

Asked if he had signed the $2,500,000 bond to which his name was affixed, Willie stammered: "Why, I didn't have a cent when I signed that."

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25 — Threatening to paralyze the motion picture industry, a strike which would close Hollywood studios and virtually every film theatre in America and Canada appeared imminent today.

Through Joseph Schenck, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, the announcement was made that the producers would not grant a 10 percent wage increase to some 35,000 studio workers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 — The naval destroyer Yarnell, a recon-ditioned World War destroyer of 1,200 tons, is aground off Cape Henry, Va., but is in no danger, the navy department and coast guard headquarters announced today.

The destroyer, which has a normal complement of 100 men, dragged her anchor, according to the coast guard, and went aground on a sandy shoal at 4 a. m.

The coast guard cutter Calypso was ordered to the scene and, upon arriving shortly after 5 a. m., found the Yarnell in no danger.

Coast guard authorities in Washington said they hoped the ship could be pulled off the shoal by a towline as soon as the tide rises.

The mishap, occurred in Lyn-haven Roads, about three miles off Cape Henry.

Coast guard officials explained that the craft is inside the capes, and not in the open sea.

BASKETBALL ORIGINATOR
NEAR DEATH IN KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 25 — Dr. James Naismith, 78, originator of basketball, was near death again today. Relying from a cerebral hemorrhage he returned to his home Wednesday from a hospital only to suffer a severe heart attack.

His physical was dubious about Dr. Naismith's chance of recovery. The aged physical education professor at the University of Kansas, devised basketball while teaching at the Springfield, Mass., Y.M.C.A. college to occupy stu-dents during the winter months.

During 1936 and 1931 while he worked in the mortgage concern as a $30 a week clerk, Cooper frequently was confronted with documents in an official's office and told "Willie, sign here."

BERLIN HURT BY IRON BLOCKADE, BRITISH CLAIM

Roosevelt's Expression Of

Capture By English Denied
In Germany—Hunger War
Brings Protests

LONDON, Nov. 25 — President Roosevelt's expression of hope at Warm Springs Thursday that the European war would be over by spring was reported today to be based on information circulating in high diplomatic circles in London.

This belief, it was said, is founded on neutral opinion that the Anglo-French "war of waiting" will have a double result:

First—Slow strangulation of Germany by the iron blockade of her imports and exports. The blockade, it was asserted, already is wearing down the morale of the Germans.

Second — Germany will be brought close to the starvation point within six months, and probably will crack internally if she suffers a single major defeat on air, land, or sea.

Ship Loss Denied

BERLIN, Nov. 25 — The pocket battleship Deutschland remains in German hands, it was officially stated today.

London rumors of the Reich warship's capture were spread, it was said, for two reasons:

First, to counteract the shock resulting from damage to the British cruiser Belfast, and Second, to endeavor to maneuver the Reich into revealing whereabouts of the Deutschland.

The same sources, it was recalled here, asserted the Deutschland was sunk two weeks ago.

Economic warfare, with its long-range planning and meticulous execution, is less dramatic than the shot and shell of the battlefield—but it kills just the same, and today the Anglo-French Allies and Germany settled down to a starvation fight which brought vigorous protests from neutral nations.

No New Sinkings

Late morning reports brought no news of fresh ship sinkings after a week in which more than a score of merchantmen were sent to the bottom of the North Sea by U-boats and mines.

Yet Britain tightened her blockade, concentrating on the use of surface craft, as King George's ministers prepared an order-in-council to be issued probably Tuesday, giving effect to England's decision that German exports as well as imports are to be seized, whether carried by Reich or neutral vessels.

JANITOR LEARNS HE NEED NOT PAY $2,500,000 DEBT

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — William Cooper, an aged apartment house porter to whom $30 a week was big money, was relieved to learn today that he won't have to pay $2,500,000 to satisfy a mortgage now in default.

In fact Cooper never knew he had signed the bond which compelled him to pay $2,500,000 on demand until he appeared as a government witness against the defunct New York Title and Mortgage Company and four of its former officials charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud in the sale of "guaranteed" mortgages.

During 1936 and 1931 while he worked in the mortgage concern as a $30 a week clerk, Cooper frequently was confronted with documents in an official's office and told "Willie, sign here."

PRINCETON AND NAVY IN TRADITIONAL BATTLE

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 25—An alert Princeton eleven that has come through its ivy league contests with flying colors, except for the Cornell loss, renewed a traditional rivalry today, opposing Navy in the 27th game of a series that dates back to 1892.

Northwestern, Texas Christian Among Victims of Fast-Fading Grid Campaign

By Walter L. Johns

TAKING a good look at the fast-fading football season we discover that:

Only four major teams are unbeaten, whereas there were eight a year ago—

There is less scoring this year than last, something like 800 less points being scored in some 500 games—

Tie games continue at the rate, about one in every 18 games—

Tennessee is the only major team unscored on—a year ago it was Duke—

Chicago was at the bottom of the heap last year and again shares that spot with Centenary—

Aggies Weak in '38

Notre Dame was unbeaten at this stage a year ago and has lost but one game this year—

Dartmouth was the scoring leader, whereas Utah fronts the pack this season—

Texas A. & M., currently a national leader, had lost three games at this time last year—

Iowa State, winner of only two of nine games this year, was undefeated a year ago—

Texas Christian, national champion in 1938, has been beaten by most everyone and has won but two games—

We probably could continue in this vein for a few more but let's call a halt.

Of especial note, of course, is the failure of Texas Christian, sans Davey O'Brien, to stay among the leaders. Tennessee, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Duke, Santa Clara and Dartmouth have kept up the high-class work despite the fact some of these have been beaten or tied.

Anderson Hero

A complete reversal of form is Iowa State. From an unblemished mark a year ago, the Cyclones have struggled along all year with little success.

New coaches have instilled new life in certain clubs. Dr. Eddie Anderson, who took over at Iowa, and Alto T. (Buff) Donelli, who has an unbeaten club at Duquesne in his first year at the Pittsburgh school, rate high. The work of Ab Kirwan, Kentucky, also is outstanding. He's in his second year, however.

Poor showing of Stanford under Tynp Thornhill adds fuel to reports he may be on the way out.

Probably the biggest midwestern surprise has been Northwestern. Touted as Big Ten champions and in the running for the national crown, the Wildcats have heaved to on their supporters. The amazing Bill De Corveant hasn't been so amazing.

Carl Snavely's work at Cornell, building a team without such men as Al Van Rans and Brud Holland, rates a plus. Cornell has proven its class with the best in the land.

Rice Falls Again

Rice Institute, hailed as national champs a year ago, and with much the same club this season, again is weak. Missouri is a surprise with the glad hand going to Don Faurot, coach. Georgetown, for the second year in a row, is undefeated, but tied. Fordham, a kill-which 12 Princeton seniors are engaging in their last collegiate game.

Navy's hopes of victory were bolstered with the return to action of the injured fullback Cliff Lenz. He is expected to get the starting berth over Tommy Blount who no doubt will see some action.

ler-diller in pre-season dope, took two surprise beatings.

Oregon State proved a prize package on the coast, losing but one game to the tough Trojans of Southern California. Pittsburgh, under Charley Bowser, knocked everyone for a loop in early season and has come up with a creditable record.

Texas Rises

Texas, the doormat of the Southwest conference, under highly-paid Dana Bible, snapped out of it under the brilliant running of a sophomore back, Jack Crain, and

YANKEES OWN BEST PLAYERS IN MINORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—The witness—an old major league executive—was duly seated on the hot stove lid today and the following cross-examination took place:

Q. What are the greatest players in the minor leagues today?

A. Shortstop Philip Rizzuto and Second Baseman Gerald Priddy.

Q. Who owns them? A. The Kansas City Blues.

Q. And who owns the Blues?

A. The New York Yankees.

Q. What is their value? A. At least $100,000 cash; more if in trade.

Q. Will they be sold? A. Not a chance but they probably will be traded with some cash coming along in the deal.

Q. Is there a prospective trade in view? A. Yes; there's a deal on the fire that would send Rizzuto and Priddy to the Detroit Tigers for Pitcher Louis (Buck) Newsom and cash.

Q. Do the Yanks want Hank Greenberg from the Tigers?

A. No; definitely not; but I hear he may go to Washington in a trade for Shortstop Cecil Travis.

Q. Who will play first for the Yanks? A. Babe Dahlgren will be on the job again. He's the greatest fielding first baseman in the game; he's young and strong and he'll drive in at least 100 runs next year.

Q. What is there to the rumor that the Yanks will move Joe Gordon from second to short and put Priddy at second?

A. Nothing to it. Priddy and Rizzuto are the greatest players in the minors; but Frank Crosetti and Joe Gordon are the greatest infield combination in the majors.

Q. Are Priddy and Rizzuto ready for the big time? A. Yes; they'll make the grade although Priddy is only 19 and the other had a year older.

Q. Which is the better? A. Contrary to general opinion, I believe Rizzuto is the better player although Priddy outthit him .333 to .316.

Q. Why do the Yanks want Newsom? A. Well, that question's a bit embarrassing but the fact is that Charley Ruffing is getting no younger and he had a sore arm all last year and Lefty Gomez is getting no better. Newsom has been a 20-game winner even with a tail-end club and he might win 30 for us.

Q. Would a deal like that be helpful to the Tigers? A. Certainly; those two kids would make their ball club. Charley Gehring has been one of the greatest second basemen of all time. He's not all through yet but he's an old man in a baseball way and he can't go on forever.

Q. But if the Tigers swap Greenberg for Travis what use would they have for either Rizzuto or Priddy?

A. That Greenberg-Travis thing may fall through and even if it didn't almost any club except the Yanks could find a place for a Rizzuto or a Priddy.

Warring nations are buying fewer army mules than in 1914. They have enough trouble, it seems, as it is.

NO CHAMPION LOOMS AS GRID SEASON ENDS

Notre Dame Eliminated By Iowa-Cornell's Record Not Good Enough

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — The football season goes through the throes of its final big Saturday today, with the one certainty about it all being that no clean cut, undisputed national championship eleven will be established for 1939. Texas A. and M., or Cornell, or Tennessee, or even Duquesne by a tremendous stretch of the imagination might eventually be acclaimed as the stand-out team after the various post-season tussles have been dispensed with, but this designation won't be so far-reaching as to embrace the national title. Their records are perfect, but still not good enough.

Notre Dame had a chance to clinch the honors until two weeks ago when the Irish blew it all by a single point against Iowa. That spoiled everything. Otherwise the Irish were banging toward a record that would have been one of the best in recent years despite their several close shaves. With every team of major calibre, they started the season scheduled against three teams from the Big Ten, one from the South, one from the Southwest, one from the Pacific coast and three from the East.

The Irish had no breathers and no open dates, an arrangement in sharp contrast to Tennessee's schedule which has been dominated all along by set-ups and a couple of idle week ends toward the close when the boys begin to get weary. Duquesne also got its share of soft touches, while Cornell and Texas A. and M., faced slightly more vigorous opposition but still nothing to compare with what Notre Dame set out to do.

Notre Dame winds up its nine-game schedule against Southern California today, Cornell was finishing against Pennsylvania, while Duquesne went against Carnegie Tech with Detroit scheduled for next week. Tennessee idled today and will take on Kentucky next Thursday and Auburn December 9 to round out a 10-game slate.

Its not too late yet for some havoc to be wreaked, and it seems extremely likely that the Rose Bowl will settle the issue on national leadership.

TROJANS AND IRISH A WAIT KICK-OFF TIME

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 25—California's Rose Bowl was transplanted in the Knute Rockne Memorial stadium at Notre Dame today.

There the fighting Irish and the University of Southern California renew a football rivalry that for nationwide interest out-rivals all but the New Year's Day classic.

Just as the U. S. C. Trojans more than frequently represent the cream of the Pacific Coast conference, the Ramblers of Notre Dame are year after year among the top teams east of the Rockies.

Notre Dame is popularly known as the worldman's alma mater and plays to crowds of rabid partisans as far away as New York. And in the Midwest where Notre Dame is banned along with Big Ten conference members from post season games, the annual U. S. C. clash is the climax of the fall schedule.

As a result the game today will be played before a sell-out crowd of 56,000. Another 40,000 applications were turned down. Last year in California the contest drew a throng of 102,000.

The game is the fourteenth between the intersectional rivals, with Notre Dame holding a slight edge in the record having won seven lost five and tied one.

U. S. C.'s 13 to 0 win last year broke Notre Dame's eight-game winning streak and sent the Trojans on to the Rose Bowl.

The picture is little different this season. Notre Dame has waded through seven top teams from the Midwest, South and East, losing only to Iowa, 7 to 6. U. S. C. has swamped five foes and has only a 7 to 7 tie with

Unblemished Record Of Cornell Is Exposed To Penn Line Thrusts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25—Undeclared and untied Cornell invaded Franklin Field, frequently a jinx in past years for Big Red teams, and exposed its unblemished record to the line thrusts and aerial offense of a heavier and aroused Pennsylvania eleven today.

A 1-to-3 favorite, Cornell is anxious to capture this 44th contest between the schools and retain the Ivy League championship in addition to strengthening its claim on eastern as well as national honors. A throng of 70,000 may jam the field for this battle between the ancient rivals that has produced so many upsets.

Penn, which recently has flashed a scoring punch and good defensive ability, is at its peak and looks to Frank Reagan, its triple-threat backfield ace, for plenty of fireworks. Except for Nick Drahos, star right tackle who may not be among the starters, Cornell is in good physical condition.

Penn has lost to Michigan, Penn State and North Carolina but this

Oregon in the initial game to mar its record.

There is less scoring this year than last, something like 800 less points being scored in some 500 games—

The games continue at the rate, about one in every 18 games—
Tennessee is the only major team unscored on—a year ago it was Duke—
Chicago was at the bottom of the heap last year and again shares that spot with Centenary—

Aggies Weak in '38
Notre Dame was unbeaten at this stage a year ago and has lost but one game this year—
Dartmouth was the scoring leader, whereas Utah fronts the pack this season—

Texas A. & M., currently a national leader, had lost three games at this time last year—
Iowa State, winner of only two of nine games this year, was undefeated a year ago—

Texas Christian, national champion in 1938, has been beaten by most everyone and has won but two games—
We probably could continue in this vein for a few more but let's call a halt.

Of especial note, of course, is the failure of Texas Christian, sans Dave O'Brien, to stay among the leaders, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Duke, Santa Clara and Dartmouth have kept up the high-class work despite the fact some of these have been kept or tied.

Anderson Hero
A complete reversal of form is Iowa State. From an unblemished mark a year ago, the Cyclones have struggled along all year with little success.

New coaches have instilled new life in certain clubs. Dr. Eddie Anderson, who took over at Iowa, and Alto T. (Buff) Donelli, who has an unbeaten club at Duquesne in his first year at the Pittsburgh school, rate high. The work of Ab Kirwan, Kentucky, also is outstanding. He's in his second year, however.

Poor showing of Stanford under Tiny Thornhill adds fuel to reports he may be on the way out. Probably the biggest midwestern surprise has been Northwestern. Touted as Big Ten champions and in the running for the national crown, the Wildcats have heaved to on their supporters. The amazing Bill De Correvont hasn't been so amazing.

Carl Snavely's work at Cornell, building a team without such men as Al Van Rans and Bud Holland, rates a play. Cornell has proven its class with the best in the land.

Rice Falls Again
Rice Institute, hailed as national champs a year ago, and with much the same club this season, again is weak. Missouri is a surprise with the glad hand going to Don Faurot, coach. Georgetown, for the second year in a row, is undefeated, but tied. Fordham, a kilt-

which 12 Princeton seniors are engaging in their last collegiate game.

Navy's hopes of victory were bolstered with the return to action of the injured Fullback Cliff Lenz. He is expected to get the starting berth over Tommy Blount who no doubt will see some action.

ler-diller in pre-season dope, took two surprise beatings.

Oregon State proved a prize package on the coast, losing but one game to the tough Trojans of Southern California. Pittsburgh, under Charley Bowser, knocked everyone for a loop in early season and has come up with a creditable record.

Texas Rises

Texas, the doormat of the Southwest conference, under highly-paid Dana Bible, snapped out of it under the brilliant running of a sophomore back, Jack Crain, and may be the team to beat in that league next year.

Holy Cross again rates high with another Osmanski doing the touch-down work. Here, too, goes an orchid to new coach Joe Shekeetski. Purdue, a Big Ten favorite, never could get going and has lost more games than it has won. Both the Army and Navy are weaker than in many years. Clemson, led by Banks McFadden, all-around ace, has one of the best teams in history.

Enough of this. On to the final games.

YANKEES OWN BEST PLAYERS IN MINORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—The witness—an old major league executive—was duly seated on the hot stove lid today and the following cross-examination took place:

Q. What are the greatest players in the minor leagues today?
A. Shortstop Philip Rizzuto and Second Baseman Gerald Priddy.

Q. Who owns them? A. The Kansas City Blues.

Q. And who owns the Blues?
A. The New York Yankees.

Q. What is their value? A. At least $100,000 cash; more if in trade.

Q. Will they be sold? A. Not a chance but they probably will be traded with some cash coming along in the deal.

Q. Is there a prospective trade in view? A. Yes; there's a deal on the fire that would send Rizzuto and Priddy to the Detroit Tigers for Pitcher Louis (Buck) Newsom and cash.

Q. Do the Yanks want Hank Greenberg from the Tigers?
A. No; definitely not; but I hear he may go to Washington in a trade for Shortstop Cecil Travis.

Q. Who will play first for the Yanks? A. Babe Dahlgren will be on the job again. He's the greatest fielding first baseman in the game; he's young and strong and he'll drive in at least 100 runs next year.

Q. What is there to the rumor that the Yanks will move Joe Gordon from second to short and put Priddy at second?
A. Nothing to it. Priddy and Rizzuto are the greatest players in the minors; but Frank Crosetti and Joe Gordon are the greatest infield combination in the majors.

Q. Are Priddy and Rizzuto ready for the big time? A. Yes; they'll make the grade although Priddy is only 19 and the other had a year older.

Q. Which is the better? A. Contrary to general opinion, I believe Rizzuto is the better player although Priddy outlived him 333 to 316.

Q. Why do the Yanks want Newsom? A. Well, that question's a bit embarrassing but the fact is that Charley Ruffing is getting no younger and he had a sore arm all last year and Lefty Gomez is getting no better. Newsom has been a 20-game winner even with a tail-end club and he might win 30 for us.

Q. Would a deal like that be helpful to the Tigers? A. Certainly; those two kids would make their ball club. Charley Gehring has been one of the greatest second basemen of all time. He's not all through yet but he's an old man in a baseball way and he can't go on forever.

Q. But if the Tigers swap Greenberg for Travis what use would they have for either Rizzuto or Priddy?
A. That Greenberg-Travis thing may fall through and even if it didn't almost any club except the Yanks could find a place for a Rizzuto or a Priddy.

Warring nations are buying fewer army mules than in 1914. They have enough trouble, it seems, as it is.

NO CHAMPION LOOMS AS GRID SEASON ENDS

Notre Dame Eliminated By Iowa-Cornell's Record Not Good Enough

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — The football season goes through the throes of its final big Saturday today, with the one certainty about it all being that no clean cut, undisputed national championship eleven will be established for 1939. Texas A. and M., or Cornell, or Tennessee, or even Duquesne by a tremendous stretch of the imagination might eventually be acclaimed as the stand-out team after the various post-season tussles have been dispensed with, but this designation won't be so far-reaching as to embrace the national title. Their records are perfect, but still not good enough.

Notre Dame had a chance to clinch the honors until two weeks ago when the Irish blew it all by a single point against Iowa. That spoiled everything. Otherwise the Irish were banging toward a record that would have been one of the best in recent years despite their several close shaves. With every team of major calibre, they started the season scheduled against three teams from the Big Ten, one from the South, one from the Southwest, one from the Pacific coast and three from the East.

The Irish had no breathers and no open dates, an arrangement in sharp contrast to Tennessee's schedule which has been dominated all along by set-ups and a couple of idle week ends toward the close when the boys begin to get weary. Duquesne also got its share of soft touches, while Cornell and Texas A. and M., faced slightly more vigorous opposition but still nothing to compare with what Notre Dame set out to do.

Notre Dame winds up its nine-game schedule against Southern California today, Cornell was finishing against Pennsylvania, while Duquesne went against Carnegie Tech with Detroit scheduled for next week. Tennessee idled today and will take on Kentucky next Thursday and Auburn December 9 to round out a 10-game slate.

Its not too late yet for some havoc to be wreaked, and it seems extremely likely that the Rose Bowl will settle the issue on national leadership.

PHILADELPHIA, — Termed "conducive to counterfeiting and detrimental to business," photo-engraving shops in WPA schools and CCC camps were assailed at the convention of the American Photo-Engravers Association in Philadelphia. Edward J. Volz, president of the International Photo-Engravers Union of North America, told delegates that he had appealed to the federal government after several persons were discovered counterfeiting currency in a WPA work shop in Milwaukee.

TROJANS AND IRISH AWAIT KICK-OFF TIME

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 25—California's Rose Bowl was transplanted in the Knute Rockne Memorial stadium at Notre Dame today.

There the fighting Irish and the University of Southern California renew a football rivalry that for nationwide interest out-ri-vals all but the New Year's Day classic.

Just as the U. S. C. Trojans more than frequently represent the cream of the Pacific Coast conference, the Ramblers of Notre Dame are year after year among the top teams east of the Rockies.

Notre Dame is popularly known as the workman's alma mater and plays to crowds of rabid partisans as far away as New York. And in the Middle West where Notre Dame is banned along with Big Ten conference members from post season games, the annual U. S. C. clash is the climax of the fall schedule.

As a result the game today will be played before a sell-out crowd of 56,000. Another 40,000 applications were turned down. Last year in California the contest drew a throng of 102,000.

The game is the fourteenth between the intersectional rivals, with Notre Dame holding a slight edge in the record having won seven lost five and tied one.

U. S. C.'s 13 to 0 win last year broke Notre Dame's eight-game winning streak and sent the Trojans on to the Rose Bowl.

The picture is little different this season. Notre Dame has waded through seven top teams from the Midwest, South and East, losing only to Iowa, 7 to 6. U. S. C. has swamped five foes and has only a 7 to 7 tie with

BIG RED FACES OLD JINX AT FRANKLIN FIELD

Unblemished Record Of Cornell Is Exposed To Penn Line Thrusts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25—Undefeated and untied Cornell invaded Franklin Field, frequently a jinx in past years for Big Red teams, and exposed its unblemished record to the line thrusts and aerial offense of a heavier and aroused Pennsylvania eleven today.

A 1-to-3 favorite, Cornell is anxious to capture this 44th contest between the schools and retain the Ivy League championship in addition to strengthening its claim on eastern as well as national honors. A throng of 70,000 may jam the field for this battle between the ancient rivals that has produced so many upsets.

Penn, which recently has flashed a scoring punch and good defensive ability, is at its peak and looks to Frank Reagan, its triple-threat backfield ace, for plenty of fireworks. Except for Nick Drahos, star right tackle who may not be among the starters, Cornell is in good physical condition.

Penn has lost to Michigan, Penn State and North Carolina but this

240 YOUNG LUTHERANS IN CITY FOR ANNUAL DISTRICT LEAGUE SESSION

Parade To Be Night Feature

About 240 young folk from throughout Ohio arrived in Circleville Friday for the three-day sessions of the ninth annual conference of the Ohio District Luther League being held in Trinity Lutheran Church.

One of the highlights of the program for Saturday will be a parade at 6 p. m. led by the Circleville High School Band. The parade will form at the church, go east on Mount to Pickaway, north on Pickaway to Main, west on Main to Scioto, north on Scioto to Pinckney, east on Pinckney to Court and south on Court to the courthouse where singing will be conducted on the courthouse steps. The parade will be followed by a banquet and movies.

The convention opened Friday afternoon with devotions by the Rev. G. L. Troutman, junior pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. Delegates were welcomed by Ned Dresbach, president of the Circleville Lutheran League. The response was given by Jerry Breaky, Columbus, vice president of the district league. The Rev. H. E. Koch, Columbus, executive director of the league, presented an inspirational address and a paper was read by Miss Marcella Maurer of Celina. Music was furnished by the Circleville League Chorus.

Delegates were entertained Friday night by the play "Here Comes Charlie," presented by the Circleville League.

Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capitol University, was the principal speaker Saturday morning. Devotions were conducted by Dr. G. L. Troutman, senior pastor of the Circleville Church. Other features of the morning program included a paper by Franklin Retzke, Venice, and selections by Miss Vera Zaenglein, violinist.

Final business sessions were held Saturday afternoon. New officers will be installed Sunday. The young folk are staying in the homes of members of the Lutheran congregation and are served all meals, except breakfast, in the parish house.

The Works of the Messiah

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 8 and 9

When Jesus went to the house of Peter at Capernaum, He found Peter's mother ill in bed of a fever; but Jesus touched her hand, the fever left her and she arose and helped get the evening meal.

A woman who had been ill for many years came up behind Jesus and touched the hem of His garment, and Jesus, turning, saw her and told her to be of good cheer, "thy faith hath made thee whole."

A certain ruler also came to Him and told Him that his daughter was dead; but Jesus went with him to his house, and taking the girl by the hand, she arose, and all marvelled.

Jesus and His disciples entered a ship, and while Jesus was asleep, a storm arose. The disciples wakened Jesus who hushed the wind and waves. (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 10:38)

The Works of the Messiah

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 26 is Matthew 8 and 9, the Golden Text being Acts 10:38, "Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power, went about doing good.")

JESUS OF NAZARETH went about doing good. That is our Golden Text and subject of today's lesson. Besides His teaching the Way of Life, He performed many miracles that made many people happy and the multitudes wonder and worship.

While Jesus was in Capernaum, He seems to have made His headquarters at Peter's house. When they entered the house they found Peter's mother ill in bed with a fever. Jesus went to her, touched her hand, and the fever left. "She arose and ministered unto them," Matthew tells us.

Before this a leper had come to Him, worshipping Him and saying: "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth His hand and touched the man, saying, "I will; be thou clean." And immediately the leprosy left the man.

Then a centurion came, telling of his faithful servant sick with palsy. Jesus offered to go with the centurion to heal the man, but the centurion said he was not worthy to have Jesus come under his roof. "But speak the word only," he said, "and my servant shall be healed."

Faith Wins Praise
Jesus marvelled at the answer, saying "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Then to the centurion, or Roman soldier, He said, "Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so it be done unto thee." And the servant "was healed in the selfsame hour."

After He had healed Peter's mother people brought many sick to him to be cured and He sent them away happy. The multitudes following Him were so persistent that Jesus and His disciples entered a boat and put out to sea. Jesus must have been weary, for He laid down in the back of the boat and went to sleep on a cushion. But a tempest arose and wind and waves so scared they would be lost, tossed the boat about that the disciples awoke Jesus saying, "Lord, save us, or we perish."

"And He said unto them, 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?'" Then He rebuked the wind and waves, they quieted, and "there was a great calm." And the men marvelled and said to themselves: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

When He was again on dry land they brought unto Him a man sick with palsy, and Jesus cured him, saying, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee." Certain of the scribes, taking note of these things, said, "This man blasphemeth."

Another notable miracle was that of the ruler's daughter. The ruler came to Jesus and said, worshipping Him, "My daughter is even now dead; but come and lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live." On His way to help the ruler's daughter came a woman who had been very ill for 12 years. She crept up behind Him, for she said to herself, "If I may but touch His garment I shall be whole." But Jesus turned about and saw her, and said "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole." And she was cured.

Not Dead, but Sleeping
When He saw the ruler's daughter with weeping friends gathered about her, He said to them, "Give place; for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth." They laughed Him to scorn, but when they went away He took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

All these miracles are related to show that faith will do, and what power was Christ's. His personality was such and His words and deeds so striking that men left whatever they were doing and added themselves to His disciples. A certain scribe (and you remember they were generally critical of Him) said to him, "Master, I will follow thee whosoever thou goest."

Jesus answered him, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head," warning the man what he must expect if he followed the Master.

In thanksgiving for mercies shown us all our days the psalmist says in Psalm 116, verses 3, 4 and 5:

"The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell got hold upon me: I found trouble and sorrow.
"Then I called upon the name of the Lord; O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.
"Gracious is the Lord, and righteous; yes, our God is merciful."

240 YOUNG LUTHERANS IN CITY FOR ANNUAL DISTRICT LEAGUE SESSION

Parade To Be Night Feature

About 240 young folk from throughout Ohio arrived in Circleville Friday for the three-day sessions of the ninth annual conference of the Ohio District Luther League being held in Trinity Lutheran Church.

One of the highlights of the program for Saturday will be a parade at 6 p. m. led by the Circleville High School Band. The parade will form at the church, go east on Mound to Pickaway, north on Pickaway to Main, west on Main to Scioto, north on Scioto to Pinckney, east on Pinckney to Court and south on Court to the courthouse where singing will be conducted on the courthouse steps. The parade will be followed by a banquet and movies.

The convention opened Friday afternoon with devotions by the Rev. G. L. Troutman, junior pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. Delegates were welcomed by Ned Dresbach, president of the Circleville Luther League. The response was given by Jerry Breaky, Columbus, vice president of the district league. The Rev. H. E. Koch, Columbus, executive director of the league, presented an inspirational address and a paper was read by Miss Marcella Maurer of Celina. Music was furnished by the Circleville League Chorus.

Delegates were entertained Friday night by the play "Here Comes Charlie," presented by the Circleville League.

Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capitol University, was the principal speaker Saturday morning. Devotions were conducted by Dr. G. L. Troutman, senior pastor of the Circleville Church. Other features of the morning program included a paper by Franklin Ritzke, Venice, and selections by Miss Vera Zaenglein, violinist.

Final business sessions were held Saturday afternoon. New officers will be installed Sunday.

The young folk are staying in the homes of members of the Lutheran congregation and are served all meals, except breakfast, in the parish house.

All fresh-water eels found in America and Europe go to the ocean to spawn, no matter how far away from salt water they may be.

WRONGED ITALY
THE Italian government seems to have started propagandizing this country, as a sort of back door to Europe, hoping we'll help Mussolini pull his chestnuts out of the fire. Virginio Gayda, editor of a leading Italian journal and spokesman for the Duce, tells us how wronged Italy wants "a more lasting, better peace, based on justice."
It is generally held that Italy, selling her military services to the highest bidder in the midst of the World War, flopped to the Allies and then was cheated in the pay off at Versailles. Or if this is an unfair statement of the case, that Italy, seeing her error and turning to the side of righteousness, reasonably expected more than she got in the victorious powers' new territorial deal.
That historic event takes on new interest right now from the fact that Italy once more, having withdrawn from her German alliance, seems to consider joining the allied democracies again against Germany.
Italy should have justice, of course, in any reasonable settlement of European problems. If she is to be anything more than a third-class power, she must have more assured rights in the Mediterranean, so that she can live without fear of being bottled up at either end of that "Roman Lake."
It would be sensible, too, if Britain and France, in return for pledges of good behavior hereafter, were to do something for her in the way of territorial "appeasement". They could afford to do that, to insure Italian neutrality and good will.
TOWNS WITHOUT SCHOOL
THE schools of Toledo, Ohio, close on November 23 for a six-week "vacation." The school board explains that the closing is not the educators' idea. They merely obey the "mandate" of the voting public, given on election day by a two-to-one defeat of the necessary four-mill tax levy for school purposes. A deficit of $600,000 faced the board when it made its no-school decision.
It is expected that schools will be opened again early in January when other funds become available, but no date has been set.
Here is a situation all Americans need to think about, even in towns which are free from the immediate problem. We have been proud of our public schools and our ideal of free education for all our boys and girls. But we have not always been willing to pay the cost.

NED BRUCE TANGLED IN RED TAPE
WASHINGTON — Several days ago Franklin Roosevelt and Edward "Ned" Bruce, visited the Corcoran Art Gallery together inspecting about 450 paintings and works of sculptures designed for federal buildings by artists all over the country.
Afterwards, the President remarked that it was "one of the most interesting exhibits" he had ever seen, and that it reflected the spirit of the average American. The President is an art lover and genuinely felt what he said.
But that was not the real reason he attended the exhibit. Real reason was because he wanted to boost his friend Ned Bruce and Bruce's work of carrying the spirit of the New Deal to forgotten artists.
Not many people besides the President knew it, but Bruce's resignation is on the desk of W. E. Reynolds, director of the Procurement Division, in which Bruce has done an outstanding job of selecting art for federal buildings.
Behind this is a story of red tape, personal jealousy, and the heroic struggle of one man.

ART VERSUS TAPE
The Procurement Division builds all federal buildings, and is headed by a clique of old-timers who burn daily incense on the altar of bureaucracy. For years, the decorating of federal buildings was a sort of racket. Art costs sometimes ran up to 5 and 6 per cent of the total building cost, and favored artists were given the jobs by their Procurement pals.
Then Ned Bruce came along and upset the red tape, favoritism and all.
Ned Bruce is the type of man you'd never expect to see in the Government. He is a New Yorker, son of a preacher, and once belonged to a powerful Wall Street law firm. Later he went to the Far East, bought an interest in the Manila Times, at that time edited by Sir Willmot Lewis, now of the London Times; and once operated an extensive development company in China, the South Sea Islands and French Indo-China.
Out in the Orient Bruce collected Chinese art, particularly landscapes. Then suddenly he got tired of accumulating money, of which he had plenty, and decided he would learn to paint. Bernard Baronsen, famous art critic, saw some of his paintings in New York and pronounced him a "real painter."
"Don't pull my leg," replied Bruce. "I'll pull anything I want about anything except painting," said Baronsen, "and I repeat, that is the work of a real painter."

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles F. Stewart
THE OTHER DAY I had occasion to suggest a faint suspicion that Japan has an ultimate, though rather remote eye on the Hawaiian islands. But I wouldn't for a minute hint at any disloyalty on the part of our Hawaiian-Japanese. When State Secretary Hull, irritated by Nippon's anti-Occidental policy in China, recently put a period to Uncle Sam's commercial agreement with the mikado, the Tokio press immediately took the position that he was stinging all Japanese-Americans, among others. There are more of them proportionately in Hawaii than anywhere else under the Stars and Stripes, even on the Pacific coast, where they're rather thick.
Answering Tokio, these Hawaiian-Japs promptly made it known that they're 100 percent American—and not a fraction of one percent Jap.
I believe 'em.
All but the very oldest of them are Hawaiian born. So were their parents mostly. So, quite generally, were their grandparents.
When I visited Honolulu years ago, Orientally-bound, William Frear was our governor of the territory. There was talk then to the effect that local Japanese contemplated a merger with the home islands. It was current gossip in the United States, increasingly so in California.
I expected to hear it rampant in Honolulu.
GLAD TO BE AMERICANS
"On the contrary," said Governor Frear. "Our Japs originally came here to get away from home conditions, which they hated. Is it likely that they'd want to reach back after them?"
The nub of it is this: The Japanese are a nice, friendly little people.
Their civilian population is as peaceful as a dove. Their diplomats couldn't be improved on. They are polite and reasonable, and when they make an international bargain they intend to stick to it. It's their militarists who make all the trouble.
It's as if we had a government with our present executive department set-up—except for our war department.
It's as if our war department were entirely independent of everybody else, including the president. It's as if it paid no attention whatever to our state department's dickers with other countries. It's as if our secretary of war made a business of having our secretary of state assassinated if the latter bothered him too much.
The Hawaiian-Japanese are outright anti-militaristic. They emigrated a generation or two ago to get away from their military class at home.
So if the mikado ever tries to grab those islands, I surmise that

Applying First Aid To Home Injuries
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE HAVE discussed surgical first aid emergencies. Medical emergencies include the treatment of fainting, possible poisoning, falls with head injuries, burns, frost bite, asphyxiation, and complications of sickness, such as croup, chills, colic and choking spells.
Head injuries—A young girl trips on the top of a flight of stairs, falls down, lights on her head and becomes unconscious. In 90 per cent of cases the condition looks more alarming than it is.
The first thing to do in such a case is to use your own head and not lose it. Determine signs of life —breathing, groaning—in order to inform the doctor when you call him. Straighten the injured person out on the floor and make as comfortable as possible. Cover with blankets to avoid shock until the doctor arrives.
Can Avoid Complications
Burns—Severe burns are caused by burning garments. Serious complications can be avoided by smothering the person in a rug, rolling on the floor, even when it is not evident that the garments are still burning.
Simple burns should be treated with boric acid ointment or vaseline, or any oil that is handy and reasonably sterile.
Poisoning cases—Call a doctor, empty the stomach, dilute the poison. A good general antidote is soap and water. This also is likely to empty the stomach. The stomach should be emptied two or three times and then, if water can be taken, it should be poured in to dilute the poison.
Low temperature emergencies—The body's parts most vulnerable to freezing are the ears, cheeks, nose, fingers and toes. The first aid of frost bite includes the use of gradually increased warmth—application first of snow, then of the hand, then of friction, then of the fire.
Artificial Respiration
Asphyxiation—The universal treatment for asphyxiation is artificial respiration. An aphorism about this is that the operator

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
YESTERDAY, Fabienne meets Dr. Bill Mallory at the settlement house, finds he annoys her.
CHAPTER EIGHT
THE ORTHOPEDIC clinic was open only on Fridays.
That meant that Fabienne had a whole week, with a long week-end in between, to wait to see Dr. Mallory again.
It was a week that she could have lifted out of her life and put in a frame. For the first time in her life she experienced anticipation. It was something that stole over her sweetly at unexpected moments and possessed her utterly. In those moments all her senses were quickened. It was a physical thing that made her aware of the breath in her body, the acceleration of her pulse, the beating of her heart. It was something that laid a touch on her making her cheeks glow and her eyes soften. It was something that made her look long and critically into her mirror in an effort to see herself as he might have seen her.
"Arrogant! Completely impossible!" she said distastefully to the mirrored reflection.
It had never happened to her before. This waiting just to look at a man again, to hear his voice, to have him touch her.
In her twenty-four years she had met many men whom she had found attractive, but none like this man who could make her heart beat faster just by thinking of him.
She had met handsome men, heroes, princes, earls and millionaires, and claimed them for her own. She was admittedly the most popular girl in whatever crowd she moved. She had only to lift the telephone—or her eyes—to the man who attracted her and the conquest was hers. And once they were conquests, she was done with them. She was bored.
But this man would be no easy conquest. She qualified the word with "easy."
This man, she thought, would not bore her because he would not let her be his world. He had a world of his own and she wanted to know what it was—that vast world of medicine—and look into it with him.
She didn't say that to herself at the beginning of that week of waiting. No, she told herself that she was piqued because he was the only man she had ever met who had treated her as he did.
But the week went on.
She went to the movies one night with Ken Hemingway. They saw a picture in which the hero was a physician. Sitting there in the darkened theater with Ken, Fabienne saw, not the cinema actor, but Dr. Mallory. Her finger tips tingled and when they came out of the theater she called herself an idiot for going romantic on herself.
If she was going romantic, she was going it headlong, for she soon gave herself up to thinking about him when she was with others and wanting to be alone to think of him.
On the borderland of sleep she tried to recall his face and found that it was blurred. She had only a SENSE of it.
Once she caught herself on the verge of asking Miss Huxley about him. Where did he practice? Was he successful? With what hospital was he affiliated? But she dared not give herself away.
She had no interest that whole week outside of Willoughby house. She would cheerfully have stayed there for sixteen hours a day. He might come in at any moment and she not be there to see him!
It was sheer idocy. It was mad-

This is called the prone pressure method. It should be done in cycles which take about five seconds each. Pressure is applied for two seconds, operator leans back one second, rests two seconds, repeats.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ness. It was terrible. It was wonderful. She frowned upon her expensive drawing room in the hotel, envisioning him there in one of her chairs. She filled the room with flowers daily and debated getting some of Gertrude's things from the apartment rented to the Derwents.

She bought a hostess gown the blue of the sky, with a flash of silver like the swoop of a gull's wing, slashing the length of its floating skirt. She put it on and inspected it as if it were a wedding gown. Then she put it away to wait.

And she had conversations with herself, imagining herself talking to him, asking him about his work, telling him the truth about herself.

For with all this she was learning something about herself and why she had gone to Willoughby house.

"All right, Miss Seymour," she said to herself. "Granted that your motive was almost a spite motive going there to work. Deeper than that there might have been something more gold than brass. It was selfish, yes, but who am I? to question my sub-conscious self?"

At that point in her monologue, Sue Achincloss rang up to ask her to play bridge. Fabienne was glad to accept.

It was only Wednesday and she had two more days to wait. She had never waited for anything in her life before. She'd always been able to fill in the rare hula. ("Hello, Ned? . . . This is Fabienne Seymour. . . . How sweet of you to remember me! I rang up to see if you'd come and have a cocktail with me and some other people tomorrow? . . . Good!") And waiting was all she could do.

Thursday, she said casually, "Is it Dr. Hopkins or Dr. Mallory who takes the afternoon clinic tomorrow?"

"Dr. Hopkins," Fabienne's heart sank. Then she remembered that she was going to call an extra rehearsal for the children's play. She called it for six thirty. She'd be there when he came.

She woke at seven in the morning. She had over a hour to dress. But she had never had anything to dress for as she had that day. She tried on the black crepe Gertrude had sent her from Paris a week before. Too ornate. She took it off

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

THE OTHER DAY I had occasion to suggest a faint suspicion that Japan has an ultimate, though rather remote eye on the Hawaiian islands. But I wouldn't for a minute hint at any disloyalty on the part of our Hawaiian-Japanese. When State Secretary Hull, irritated by Nippon's anti-Occidental policy in China, recently put a period to Uncle Sam's commercial agreement with the mikado, the Tokio press immediately took the position that he was stinging all Japanese-Americans, among others. There are more of them proportionately in Hawaii than anywhere else under the Stars and Stripes, even on the Pacific coast, where they're rather thick.

Answering Tokio, these Hawaiian-Japs promptly made it known that they're 100 per cent American—and not a fraction of one per cent Jap.

I believe 'em. All but the very oldest of them are Hawaiian born. So were their parents mostly. So, quite generally, were their grandparents.

When I visited Honolulu years ago, Orientally-bound, William Frear was our governor of the territory. There was talk then to the effect that local Japanese contemplated a merger with the home islands. It was current gossip in the United States, increasingly so in California.

I expected to hear it rampant in Honolulu.

GLAD TO BE AMERICANS
"On the contrary," said Governor Frear. "Our Japs originally came here to get away from home conditions, which they hated. Is it likely that they'd want to reach back after them?"

The nub of it is this: The Japanese are a nice, friendly little people.

Their civilian population is as peaceful as a dove. Their diplomats couldn't be improved on. They are polite and reasonable, and when they make an international bargain they intend to stick to it. It's their militarists who make all the trouble.

It's as if we had a government with our present executive department set-up—except for our war department.

It's as if our war department were entirely independent of everybody else, including the president. It's as if it paid no attention whatever to our state department's dickers with other countries. It's as if our secretary of war made a business of having our secretary of state assassinated if the latter bothered him too much.

The Hawaiian-Japanese are enlightened anti-militaristic. They emigrate a generation or two ago to get away from their military class at home.

So if the mikado ever tries to grab those islands, I surmise that

AN OPPONENT'S double of your contract can mark him as holding all of the dangerous cards which are out against you. If they include a number of trump honors, your only way to avoid losing too many tricks to them may lie in making him lead away from his trump combination into your own. By managing to do this, you cut down the value of his holding by one trick when you catch one of his big fellows in the forks of your own tenace.

A No-Trump game would have been like rolling off a log for North and South here, considering the location of the spade K, but they got into the much tougher contract of 5-Diamonds. North bid 1-Club, South 2-Diamonds, South 3-Diamonds and South 5-Diamonds, which West doubled.

The heart 10 was led to the Q. South figured the spade finesse would have to work, and he would also need a lead-throwing end-play.

MUSICAL COUPLE WILL ENTERTAIN PUPILS TUESDAY

Next Tuesday morning, at 10:30, the Apollo Entertainers will present a program in the high school auditorium. Giovanni Sperandeo, lyric tenor, and Senora Elsie Sperandeo, pianist and accompanist, will render various instrumental numbers and appear in many colorful costumes.

Following is the program in the order in which it will be given November 28:

1. a. Santa Lucia Leonard Favara
- b. Parlami D'amore C. A. Bixio
- Giovanni Sperandeo
2. Saltarello, a theme from "Italian Symphony"—F. Mendelssohn Elsie Sperandeo
3. a. First part of Sperandeo's life story and demonstration.
- b. Others E. Shield
- c. Without a Song ... Vincent Youmans

Giovanni Sperandeo

4. Scottish Tune Picture E. A. McDowell Elsie Sperandeo

5. Second Part of Sperandeo's life story.

6. a. Somehow I Knew F. H. Grey

b. Trees Oscar Rasbach

c. Così Cosa, from "One Night at the Opera" — Kasper Jurmann

Giovanni Sperandeo

7. Liebesfreud Fritz Kreisler Elsie Sperandeo

8. a. La Golondrina ... Arranged by J. R. Johnson

b. Siboney — (Cuban Love Song) E. Lecuna

c. Clavelitos J. Valverde Giovanni Sperandeo

9. Columbiada — from the Opera "I Pagliacci"—R. Leoncavallo Giovanni Sperandeo

The Sperandeos have been making a nation-wide tour and stopping for performances at various schools, colleges, universities, clubs, and churches. According to advance notices they have been received enthusiastically at all their concerts.

After hearing their program, George Buck, principal of Shortridge High School, Indianapolis, said, "I am sure that Mr. Sperandeo's performance will always be an inspiration to young people after hearing him and seeing how much he has accomplished. I feel that he should tell his life story to all young people in this country."

And Principal V. T. Tatlock, of Bloomington, Indiana High School is quoted as saying: "Their musical renditions were superb. The story Mr. Sperandeo tells is a challenge and an inspiration." School administrators feel that this assembly will be worthy of the entire school's support and the dividends will make the 10 cents admission trivial.

DADS TO ATTEND STOOGEE MEETING

At the regular Stoogee meeting Tuesday, plans were made for a social meeting of the Stoogee Dads and club members next Tuesday night. This will be held in order to acquaint the "Dads" with the sale of season basketball tickets and to create enthusiasm for the on-coming season.

President Orr appointed Frank Davis, chairman, Clark Martin and Sam Stubbs to take care of the refreshments. Frank Gelb is to furnish the entertainment.

Hulse Hays, Jr., who was appointed two weeks ago to obtain samples of windbreakers for next year's football team, presented three patterns sent to him by the Lowe & Campbell Company of Cincinnati. One of these was voted on by the club. More samples will be submitted later and the one which the club likes the best will be purchased.

This year's season tickets may be purchased for $1.25, students and $2.00, adults, from any Stoogee member.

Secretary Paul Walters has ordered pins and also shirts for the new members.

EDITORIAL

On the shoulders of American youth rests a great responsibility. When this present war is over and European youth are returning to rebuild their ravaged countries, it will be left to us to carry on the torch for democracy.

British, French and German youth may not be able to furnish their shares of scientists, statesmen, and philosophers. They will be too busy reconstructing to progress very far.

That will mean that we must furnish more than our share. We must keep alive all the ideals of democracy that are so precious to us.

We can do this by our everyday living, by practicing democratic principles in various situations. Earl Baldwin of Bewdley has said "The success of a democracy depends upon everyone's realizing his or her responsibility to it."

This is the key note of the situation. There must be no weak links in the chain.

As high school pupils we can learn a great deal about democracy. In school we learn to associate with others, to take orders, perhaps to give them. We have responsibilities and we have privileges. In fact we have life on a small scale. Democracy is practiced in school, and by learning there we shall be better prepared to face real life later.

For every bit of effort we put forth we receive something in return. It is up to each individual to do his part. I feel sure that when the call comes for American youth to carry on our government and democracy, they will be ready.

HI-Y CLUB HOLDS MEETING EARLY

Hi-Y members held their meeting at 7:00 Monday evening so that the boys might go to the program in the auditorium.

After routine opening procedure, members discussed their bicycle rack project, the sending of delegates to the state Hi-Y conference, plans for a Hi-Y-Sr. Reserve party, and possible collecting of food for a needy family.

President Gale Hitchcock appointed Dave Hilyard, chairman, William Goeller, Jack Imler and Paul Turner as a committee to make plans for the party.

Club members who plan to go to the state convention are Gale Hitchcock, president, Marshal Cupp, secretary, David Eagleson, Jack Imler and Thomas Armstrong, club adviser.

At their meeting the club voted to change their meeting from 8:00 to 7:30 on Monday evenings.

SQUAD MEMBERS HOLD DISCUSSION Circleville high school's debate squad held a special meeting Monday at 9:30 a. m. Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, acted as chairman of the discussion.

The purpose of this assembly was to read new material on the debate question for the year—"Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads." This information was furnished by the committee on Public Relations of Eastern Railroads.

To date, twelve pupils have registered for debate. Those upholding the affirmative are Glenn Cook, Dorothy Cook, Anna Sue Reichelderfer, Robert Schumm, Leland Siegel, Lillian Thompson and Paul Turner. Those on the negative are William Burget, Marvin Hennes, Lloyd Jones and Mary Adele Snider.

EIGHT HS PUPILS COMPOSE STAFF FOR PUBLICATION

Marilyn Lutz was honored this week by her appointment to the position of editor-in-chief of this year's publication of the "Circle," C. H. S. annual.

Hulse Hays, Jr., heads the business staff of the annual. Hulse will be responsible for advertisement and subscription campaigns. He will also have charge of all schedules for pictures.

A committee composed of faculty members and school administrators made the above selections, based on willingness to cooperate, originality, and ability in English composition, personality and business ability.

Marilyn was junior representative on the editorial staff last year and so has received much experience. William Heffner, junior representative on the business staff last year, has transferred from Circleville High.

Mrs. E. L. Price, president of the Circleville union, led the business meeting when plans were discussed for the Christmas meeting. The session will be in the U. B. Community house December 29 with an exchange of gifts planned for the affair. The devotions were opened with group singing of the hymn, "Lead on, O King Eternal". Mrs. Gusman and Mrs. Greeno headed the committee that served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Washington Grange

Members of Washington Grange were entertained with a Thanksgiving program Friday at the meeting in Washington School auditorium. Mrs. A. W. Bosworth was program leader for the evening. During the program hour of the subordinate grange, the juvenile grange election was held in its chapter room.

Group singing of "America" opened the program, Miss Dorothy Glick then playing a group of piano selections, "Scatter-

SILK JERSEY is the perennial glamor girl of fabrics, rushing from the summer to the winter scenes of fashion without any lessening of popularity. Here we have a Hollywood-designed dinner frock of this flattering cloth, draped over beautiful Isa Miranda of the films. The color of this particular jersey is nude—a trail, luminous, silk-stocking color, amenable to nearly all accent tones, including jewelry as well as more utilitarian accessories. A heavy gold East India necklace and a gold kid belt are shown with the gown. Isa's coat is blonde fox.

RESERVES HOLD SHORT MEETING

Since school was dismissed early Wednesday, the Senior Girl Reserves held only a business meeting. Harrey Parker was scheduled to speak on aviation. His talk has been postponed until Wednesday, December 6.

"Ruth Gard, chairman of the program committee, reported on their plans for the remainder of the year. Jean Kinney, secretary, read ways in which the club can improve its meetings. A list of conduct rules was made at cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Plans were completed for the tea to be held November 29 for advisory council members. President Mabel Noggle named committees for this affair.

Margaret Adkins, chairman, Jane Klingensmith, Grace Wagner and Phyllis Young will prepare refreshments.

Mabel Noggle, Pollyanna Friedman and Regina Thornton will act as a reception committee.

Martha Mavis heads the program committee with Eleanor McDill, Isabelle Noggle and Norma Wolfe as her aides.

Joan Downing, chairman, Marilyn Lutz, Doris Waters and Lena Webbe are in charge of the seating arrangement for the affair.

Clean-up committee is composed of Jean Kinney, chairman, Jane Metzger, Mary Ruth Owens and Stella Mae Skinner.

Miss Elma Rains and ten club members have accepted an invitation to attend an all-day Girl Reserve rally at Hillsboro high school Saturday, December 9.

FIRST PROGRAM IN SERIES HELD

At 8:00 p. m. Monday, in the high school auditorium, the first Kiwanis program in a series of four was presented. At that time the four "Marching Men of Song" offered various skits and musical numbers.

November 27, the Kiwanis will sponsor Clarence W. Sorenson, a member of the Royal Geographical Society, who will lecture on world affairs and his adventure in foreign lands.

PHYSICAL ED. CLASSES

This week the physical education classes of Mr. Black, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Armstrong started playing basketball. The instructors appointed captains, and then teams were chosen.

By playing games of two points each and the winner remaining on the floor, it makes the games faster and a large number of boys participate.

TOY DOLL SAVES LIFE

CHADRON, Neb.—The parents of Joan La Riviere were glad their baby daughter carried a toy rubber doll in her hands when she went to play in the driveway beside her home. A neighbor got into his automobile parked in the driveway and started to back up. He heard a squeak and stopped. The little girl had made no sound, but the car had run over the doll in her hands, and she was next in line. He was uninjured.

MUSICAL COUPLE WILL ENTERTAIN PUPILS TUESDAY

Next Tuesday morning, at 10:30, the Apollo Entertainers will present a program in the high school auditorium. Giovanni Sperandeo, lyric tenor, and Senora Elsie Sperandeo, pianist and accompanist, will render various instrumental numbers and appear in many colorful costumes.

Following is the program in the order in which it will be given November 28:

1. a. Santa Lucia Leonard Favara
- b. Parlami D'amore Mariu C. A. Bixio
- Giovanni Sperandeo
2. Saltarello, a theme from "Italian Symphony"—F. Mendelssohn Elsie Sperandeo
3. a. First part of Sperandeo's life story and demonstration.
- b. Others E. Shield
- c. Without a Song Vincent Youmans
- Giovanni Sperandeo
4. Scottish Tune Picture E. A. McDowell Elsie Sperandeo
5. Second Part of Sperandeo's life story.
6. a. Somehow I Knew F. H. Grey
- b. Trees Oscar Rasbach
- c. Così Cosa, from "One Night at the Opera" — Kasper Jurnmann
- Giovanni Sperandeo
7. Liebesfreud Fritz Kreisler Elsie Sperandeo
8. a. La Golondrina Arranged by J. R. Johnson
- b. Siboney — (Cuban Love Song) E. Lecuona
- c. Clavelitos J. Valverde
- Giovanni Sperandeo
9. Columbia — from the Opera "I Pagliacci" — R. Leonavallo Giovanni Sperandeo

The Sperandeos have been making a nation-wide tour and stopping for performances at various schools, colleges, universities, clubs, and churches. According to advance notices they have been received enthusiastically at all their concerts.

After hearing their program, George Buck, principal of Shortridge High School, Indianapolis, said, "I am sure that Mr. Sperandeo's performance will always be an inspiration to young people after hearing him and seeing how much he has accomplished. I feel that he should tell his life story to all young people in this country."

And Principal V. T. Tatlock, of Bloomington, Indiana High School is quoted as saying: "Their musical renditions were superb. The story Mr. Sperandeo tells is a challenge and an inspiration."

School administrators feel that this assembly will be worthy of the entire school's support and the dividends will make the 10 cents admission trivial.

DADS TO ATTEND STOOGEE MEETING

At the regular Stoogee meeting Tuesday, plans were made for a social meeting of the Stoogee Dads and club members next Tuesday night. This will be held in order to acquaint the "Dads" with the sale of season basketball tickets and to create enthusiasm for the on-coming season.

President Orr appointed Frank Davis, chairman, Clark Martin and Sam Stubbs to take care of the refreshments. Frank Gelb is to furnish the entertainment.

Hulse Hays, Jr., who was appointed two weeks ago to obtain samples of windbreakers for next year's football team, presented three patterns sent to him by the Lowe & Campbell Company of Cincinnati. One of these was voted on by the club. More samples will be submitted later and the one which the club likes the best will be purchased.

This year's season tickets may be purchased for $1.25, students and $2.00, adults, from any Stoogee member.

Secretary Paul Walters has ordered pins and also shirts for the new members.

EDITORIAL

On the shoulders of American youth rests a great responsibility. When this present war is over and European youth are returning to rebuild their ravaged countries, it will be left to us to carry on the torch for democracy.

British, French and German youth may not be able to furnish their shares of scientists, statesmen, and philosophers. They will be too busy reconstructing to progress very far.

That will mean that we must furnish more than our share. We must keep alive all the ideals of democracy that are so precious to us.

We can do this by our everyday living, by practicing democratic principles in various situations. Earl Baldwin of Bewdley has said "The success of a democracy depends upon everyone's realizing his or her responsibility to it."

This is the key note of the situation. There must be no weak links in the chain.

As high school pupils we can learn a great deal about democracy. In school we learn to associate with others, to take orders, perhaps to give them. We have responsibilities and we have privileges. In fact we have life on a small scale. Democracy is practiced in school, and by learning there we shall be better prepared to face real life later.

For every bit of effort we put forth we receive something in return. It is up to each individual to do his part. I feel sure that when the call comes for American youth to carry on our government and democracy, they will be ready.

HI-Y CLUB HOLDS MEETING EARLY

Hi-Y members held their meeting at 7:00 Monday evening so that the boys might go to the program in the auditorium.

After routine opening procedure, members discussed their bicycle rack project, the sending of delegates to the state Hi-Y conference, plans for a Hi-Y-Sr. Reserve party, and possible collecting of food for a needy family.

President Gale Hitchcock appointed Dave Hilyard, chairman, William Goeller, Jack Imler and Paul Turner as a committee to make plans for the party.

Club members who plan to go to the state convention are Gale Hitchcock, president, Marshal Cupp, secretary, David Eagleson, Jack Imler and Thomas Armstrong, club adviser.

At their meeting the club voted to change their meeting from 8:00 to 7:30 on Monday evenings.

SQUAD MEMBERS HOLD DISCUSSION

Circleville high school's debate squad held a special meeting Monday at 9:30 a. m. Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, acted as chairman of the discussion.

The purpose of this assembly was to read new material on the debate question for the year—"Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads." This information was furnished by the committee on Public Relations of Eastern Railroads.

To date, twelve pupils have registered for debate. Those upholding the affirmative are Blenn Cook, Dorothy Cook, Anna Sue Reichelderfer, Robert Schumm, Leland Siegwald, Lillian Thompson and Paul Turner. Those on the negative are William Burget, Marvin Hennes, Lloyd Jones and Mary Adele Snider.

EIGHT HS PUPILS COMPOSE STAFF FOR PUBLICATION

Marilyn Lutz was honored this week by her appointment to the position of editor-in-chief of this year's publication of the "Circle," C. H. S. annual.

Hulse Hays, Jr., heads the business staff of the annual. Hulse will be responsible for advertisement and subscription campaigns. He will also have charge of all schedules for pictures.

A committee composed of faculty members and school administrators made the above selections, based on willingness to cooperate, originality, and ability in English composition, personality and business ability.

Marilyn was junior representative on the editorial staff last year and so has received much experience. William Heffner, junior representative on the business staff last year, has transferred from Circleville High.

Aides to Marilyn on the editorial staff are Mary Lutz, Regina Thornton and David Eagleson. The committee named Pat Bennett, Howard Orr and Jane Paul as Hulse's aides on the business staff.

Miss Margaret A. Mattinson will again be faculty adviser this year. Miss Mattinson has stated that two juniors will be appointed to the staffs in the near future. Principal J. Wray Henry will advise the business staff.

Seniors have begun picture taking, and Charles F. Zaenglein expects to start taking organization pictures as soon as the weather permits. Marilyn has called upon pupils of the school to take snapshots again this year.

John and Ollier Engraving Company of Chicago, Illinois, will do the engraving.

Appointments to positions on the annual staffs are considered among the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a high school pupil. The Red and Black staff congratulates the pupils selected and wishes them luck in their biggest high school project.

JUNIOR RESERVE DONATES BASKET

Following the annual custom, the Junior Girl Reserves donated a Thanksgiving basket of canned foods to a needy family in Circleville. Martha Pile and Viola Arledge delivered the basket Wednesday.

Every year the club gives a party for the underprivileged children of the Circleville schools. These children are chosen from the first and second grades. They receive small gifts and refreshments at this party held in the social room on the last day of school before the Christmas holidays.

Plans for the party will be made at the first regular meeting of the club after Thanksgiving.

Programs for the year have now been reduced in price. They are now only five cents instead of ten cents.

Results of the bake sale held Saturday the eighteenth, were discussed. The amount realized was more than that made from last year's sale.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

spent eight hours a day steadily painting. When he came back in 1929, his exhibit in New York put him in the first rank of American landscape painters.

His best known work, "Panorama of San Francisco," hangs in the San Francisco stock exchange, and other paintings are on display in galleries in New York, Washington, and West Coast cities.

Bruce came back to Washington just before the New Deal as a lobbyist for his Philippine friends to secure favorable action on the Philippine Independence Bill.

New is a natural lobbyist, convivial, gay, handsome, a convincing speaker. He attracted New Dealers, particularly Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, who took him to the London Economic Conference. There, because of his knowledge of silver in the Far East, Bruce was largely responsible for the one tangible achievement of the conference — the silver agreement.

However, Bruce's chief love was art. He became an adviser on fine arts to the Treasury Department, and finally persuaded the President and Secretary Morgenthau to assign him one percent of federal building costs for decorating. This was less than the average spent before, but with it, Bruce set out to bring painting and sculpture into every small town in the country.

ART RENAISSANCE

He became, in actual fact, the leader of the renaissance of American art. Artists everywhere worship him. He did this by holding competitions among local artists for the decorations in new post offices and WPA projects. He even let the artists themselves select the winning designs through jury panels.

It was government reorganization which disrupted Bruce's program. Old-timers in the Procurement Division never did like him and resorted to all sorts of underhanded tricks to oust him. Ever since the Procurement Division was transferred from the Treasury Department to Carmody's Federal Works Agency, Bruce's life has been miserable.

W. E. Reynolds, chief red tape worshiper, has assigned three architects to whom Bruce must report. Funds have not been OK'd for his activities, and Reynolds has set himself up as a super art critic.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

spent eight hours a day steadily painting. When he came back in 1929, his exhibit in New York put him in the first rank of American landscape painters.

His best known work, "Panorama of San Francisco," hangs in the San Francisco stock exchange, and other paintings are on display in galleries in New York, Washington, and West Coast cities.

Bruce came back to Washington just before the New Deal as a lobbyist for his Philippine friends to secure favorable action on the Philippine Independence Bill.

New is a natural lobbyist, convivial, gay, handsome, a convincing speaker. He attracted New Dealers, particularly Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, who took him to the London Economic Conference. There, because of his knowledge of silver in the Far East, Bruce was largely responsible for the one tangible achievement of the conference — the silver agreement.

However, Bruce's chief love was art. He became an adviser on fine arts to the Treasury Department, and finally persuaded the President and Secretary Morgenthau to assign him one percent of federal building costs for decorating. This was less than the average spent before, but with it, Bruce set out to bring painting and sculpture into every small town in the country.

ART RENAISSANCE

He became, in actual fact, the leader of the renaissance of American art. Artists everywhere worship him. He did this by holding competitions among local artists for the decorations in new post offices and WPA projects. He even let the artists themselves select the winning designs through jury panels.

It was government reorganization which disrupted Bruce's program. Old-timers in the Procurement Division never did like him and resorted to all sorts of underhanded tricks to oust him. Ever since the Procurement Division was transferred from the Treasury Department to Carmody's Federal Works Agency, Bruce's life has been miserable.

W. E. Reynolds, chief red tape worshipper, has assigned three architects to whom Bruce must report. Funds have not been OK'd for his activities, and Reynolds has set himself up as a super art critic. Bruce already pays about $10,000 a year out of his own pocket for things which he cannot get through government red tape. Without this and without the $10,000 a year given him by the Carnegie Foundation, he would not be able to run his division.

For some days now, Bruce's resignation has been on Reynolds' desk. So far, however, Reynolds has hesitated to accept it. Meanwhile, Bruce has discussed the whole matter with the President, and it was to give him moral support that FDR took time off to push himself around the 450 federal paintings and works of sculpture in the Corcoran Art Gallery.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Women may be the weaker sex, but not in the eyes of the hard-boiled pilot licensees of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. With the exception of height and weight, college girls enrolling in the pilot training program must meet the same physical requirements as men. . . . The President scored with Cardinal Villeneuve of Canada, who visited the White House last week, by conversing with him in French. The prelate recalled that the President had talked in French when he visited Canada last year and that King George VI had followed this precedent during his tour last May.

BUSY BEAVERS HALT EROSION OF FARM LANDS

CASTLE ROCK, Colo.—Beavers who have been supplying fashionable women with fur coats for many a year, have found a new job that is much to their liking.

Beavers around Castle Rock have been put to work to prevent the erosion of valuable farm land by building dams and stopping excess flow of water, according to Mott R. Duncan, area biologist for the soil conservation service.

The possibility of using beavers in conserving soil and water was recognized only a year ago when an injured beaver prevented serious damage to a potato field from a heavy rain.

The beaver had been crippled and was caught by CCC boys and nursed back to health. It was placed in a stream near the potato field and immediately it went to work building a little dam which subsequently saved the crop from being washed out, Duncan revealed.

As a result of this discovery, the conservation service and the State Game Commission this year placed thirteen beavers in the Castle Rock area to prevent the cutting of stream banks and to conserve water for farm crops.

The industrious animals, which provided Kit Carson and his mountaineers with a lucrative trapping business along Colorado streams in pre-Civil War days, are being rapidly placed in streams running along farm lands and encouraged to build dams to prevent erosion.

Duncan said great success has been noted with the experiments on several farms in this area, some farmers even using the dam water to irrigate their crops.

There remains but one football "upset" to be reported. It's this: "Extra! Grid Expert Actually Picked the Winners!"

INTERVIEW SLATED

Major Julia C. Stimson, head of the American Nurses Association and the only woman ever to become a major in the United States Army, will be interviewed as "The Woman of the Week" on the "Hour of Charm" program over the NBC-Red network Sunday, December 3 at 10 p. m. This is the first airing from New York after a lengthy road tour. The entire musical portion of the program will be devoted to compositions by Rudolf Friml, including "Only a Rose," "Donkey Serenade," "Rose Marie," "Indian Love Call," "Song of the Vagabonds," "Valse Huguette" and "Sympathy Waltz."

HORACE HEIDT

Horace Heidt's "Pot o' Gold" program moves to St. Louis next Tuesday for the broadcast over the NBC-Red network at 8:30 p. m. Heidt's orchestra will make music and Ben Grauer will put in a 'phone call to some party in the United States who will receive a gift of $1,000 if the 'phone is answered. Recipient of the present last Tuesday was Mrs. Ben Kluding, 4 Garfield Avenue, Norwalk, O. This week's "Pot o' Gold" program will be the tenth in the series.

METROPOLITAN OPERA

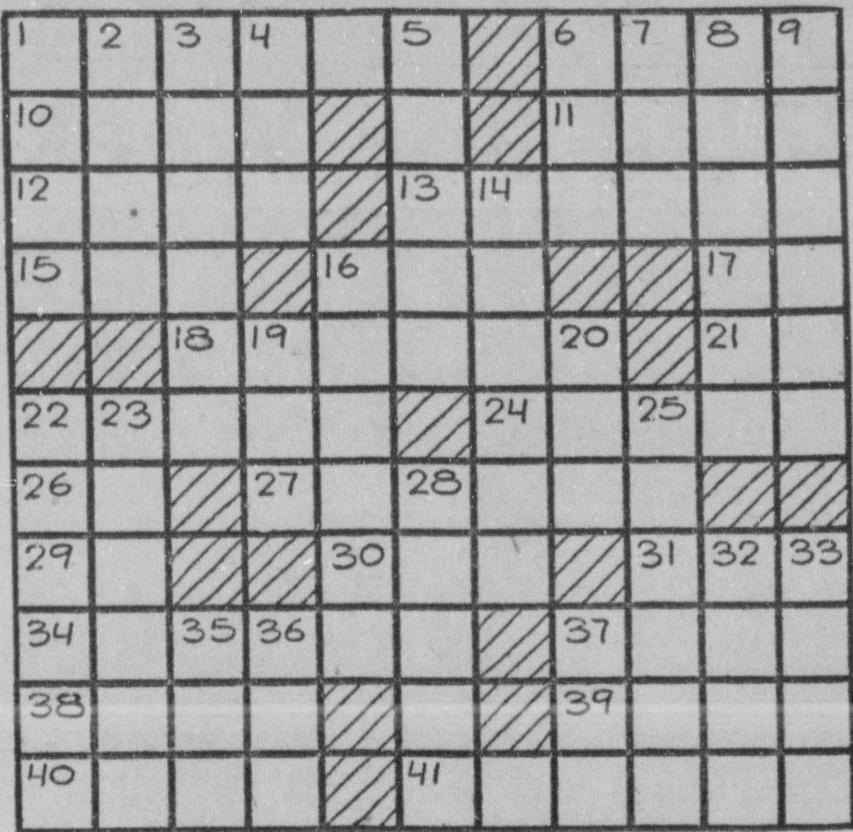

The Metropolitan Opera's Saturday matinee performance again will be broadcast over WLW from NBC this season, marking the ninth consecutive year the programs have been aired. They will be heard each Saturday at approximately 2 p. m. beginning December 2. Details of the first performance have not been announced.

RIES IN CONCLAVE

Joseph Ries, educational director of WLW, has been appointed chairman of the Adult Education Work Group of the third school broadcast conference of the Chicago Radio Council, meeting from December 6 to 8 in Chicago.

Ries also will attend a meeting of NBC station education directors, called by Dr. Rowland Angell, education counselor of the National Broadcasting Company.

75 PICKAWAY FARM FAMILIES TO ATTEND OHIO BUREAU CONVENTION

COUNTYANS ALSO TO APPEAR WITH CHORUS OF 1000

Annual Assembly Opens At Columbus Wednesday For Two Days

FINE PROGRAM OFFERED

Boys And Girls To Play Prominent Roles In Convention

Pickaway County Farm Bureau officials estimate about 75 families from this county plan to attend sessions of the 21st annual convention of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to be held in Columbus next Wednesday and Thursday.

Pickaway County's delegates to the convention are Homer Reber, Walnut Township, and T. M. Glick, Circleville Township, James Swearingen and S. B. Chambers, both of Circleville, are alternates.

Approximately 30 from the county will take part in the 1,000-voice chorus to sing Wednesday evening. The county group is under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Reber, Walnut Township.

Radio entertainment, talks by state and national leaders, conferences for youth and farm women, discussion sessions and recreation are among the varied highlights of the convention. A crowd of approximately 3,000 rural folk are expected at the convention.

Officers reports will occupy the morning session at Memorial Hall on Wednesday, while the annual Youth Conference session will be held at the same time in the grand ballroom of the Neil House. L. F. Warbington, of the Ohio Farm Bureau education department, will be general discussion leader for the Youth Conference, and Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the organization will be the principal speaker. "Why Cooperative Action by Youth?" is the conference theme.

The youth will convene with the general convention session at Memorial Hall in the afternoon when Edward A. O'Neal, of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Lincoln will be the principal speakers. "Problems Facing the American Farmer" will be O'Neal's subject and Lincoln will speak on "The Program of Action for 1940."

Wednesday evening session of the convention will be held at the Columbus Auditorium. The program for this session will include music by Farm Bureau bands, presentation of awards for attendance and organization achievement, singing by the statewide Farm Bureau chorus under the direction of Lyle Straight, Bloomington, Ill., an address by Dr. Henry Hitt Crain, of Detroit, entertainment by WLW radio artists, folk game demonstrations by cooperative youth councils and dancing for everybody.

Mrs. C. E. Josephson, Tiffin, chairman of Home and Family department of the Ohio Council of Churches, will be the speaker for the annual women's breakfast, to be held in the Neil House, ballroom, Thursday morning.

On the program of the Thursday morning general convention session will be short talks by directors of various Ohio Farm Bureau service departments, a memorial service and addresses by Mrs. Raymond Sayre, chairman of the women's committee of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, and Mr. Lincoln.

Official delegates to the convention, representing county farm bureaus throughout the state, will hold their annual business session on Thursday afternoon in the Neil House ballroom. Resolutions for the coming year will be adopted at this session.

SAMUEL MARTIN FUNERAL SKI/FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Samuel Martin, 60, farmer, who was found dead in bed at his home near Commercial Point Friday morning, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the A. J. Hott Funeral Home in Commercial Point. Burial will be in Jackson Township Cemetery.

Death was due to heart disease. Mr. Martin is survived by his widow, Mary; one daughter, Mrs. Maggie Wilkinson; two brothers, James and Marion, and a sister, Mrs. Bessie Armentrout.

Mrs. James Ford, Pearl Avenue, remains seriously ill in Berger Hospital.

Edwin Strawser, Elm Avenue, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia in Berger Hospital, was reported improved Saturday.

A 50c Turkey dinner will be served Friday evening, Dec. 1 at the Parish House by the Ladies' Aid of the Williamsport Methodist Church.

ELIZABETH SHEA, COUNTY NATIVE, DIES AT HOME

Mrs. Elizabeth Shea, 74, native of Pickaway County and widow of Thomas Shea, died at 5:50 p. m. Friday at her home in Columbus. Complications caused death. Mrs. Shea moved from Pickaway County over 40 years ago.

Surviving are one brother, Charles McFadden, Watt Street, Circleville, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Davis, Columbus.

Mrs. Shea was a daughter of John C. and Margaret Weider McFadden. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Mader Chapel with the Rev. A. N. Gruesser, pastor of the United Brethren Church, officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

SCHOOL PUPILS TO PARTICIPATE IN BIG CONTEST

Pupils of Circleville and Pickaway County schools have an opportunity to enter a contest being conducted in connection with the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

The Ohio Public Health Association and the National Tuberculosis Association, in cooperation with the Columbus Scholastic Press Association, are sponsoring a state-wide school newspaper contest.

Any elementary school, junior or senior high school which publishes a paper or bulletin is eligible to enter. The contest presents an opportunity to acquaint school children with the danger of tuberculosis contacts in the home and all walks of life.

Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 are offered by the Ohio Public Health Association for the three school papers submitting the best article or story not later than January 24. The winning paper will be entered in a national contest.

Two books on scientific, historical and statistical information for use in the contest have been submitted to the Public Library. One is in the library, the other on the county book truck. They were donated by the Pickaway County Public Health League.

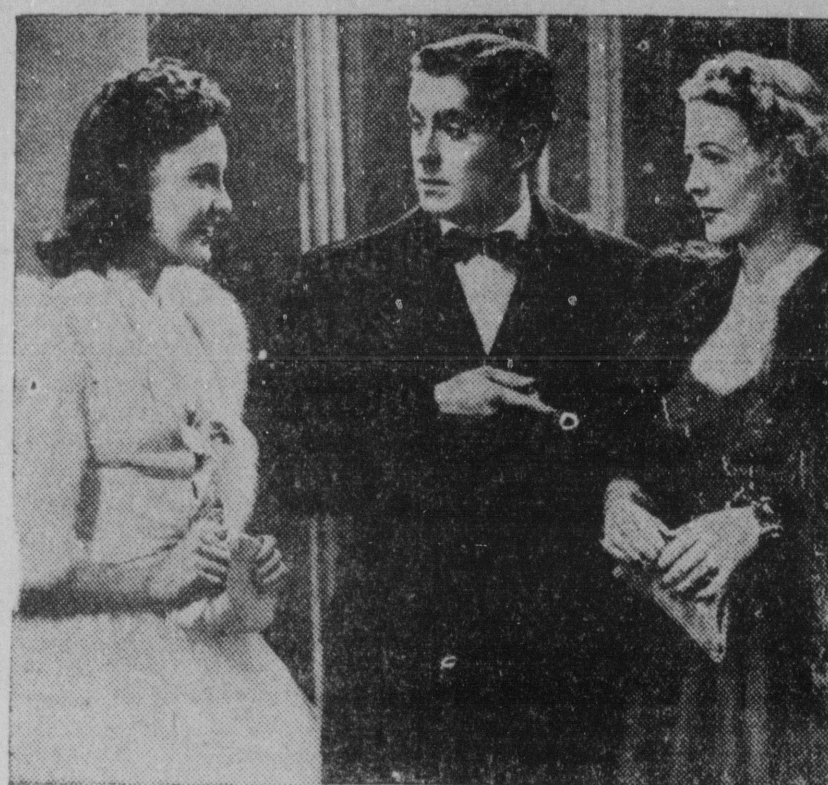

The entire issue to the school paper need not be devoted to tuberculosis. The papers are to be submitted to the Pickaway County Public Health League as early as possible. Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, West Franklin Street, is the executive secretary.

The thirty-third annual sale of Christmas seals opens December 1 and continues until Christmas Day.

allegations—intensified her mine campaign for the purpose of diverting neutral shipping towards German ports.

Japan Protests

Japan today became the fourth nation to protest against Britain's retaliation for the alleged German mine-laying campaign.

Belgium, the Netherlands, and Italy preceded Nippon in the contention that British measures constituted a staggering blow to non-belligerent shipping.

London promised that every care would be taken for the protection of neutral ships and men, but Britannia pushed plans to stop every ship and examine her for possible German goods.

According to a Copenhagen dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph, Germany is carrying on a "black-mail" drive to press neutral nations into trading only with the Reich.

Nazi agents, the paper asserted, are now negotiating with five neutral countries, pointing out that the Reich is trying to sink all vessels attempting to reach England, whether they are allied or neutrals.

Berlin Offers Market

However, Germany was said to be promising the neutrals, the Reich is ready to accept greatly increased supplies in order to compensate the neutrals for the loss of Anglo-French trade.

The Daily Telegraph said payment was promised on long-term arrangements "when Germany wins the war."

Germany's astounding new technique of dropping mines by parachute forced Britain to close the Thames River Estuary to shipping Thursday, it was understood in London.

Britain's mine-sweeping operations, however, have been improved to such an extent that the wide tidal inlet was cleared of the explosives within a few hours.

Mine Sweepers Active

Better organization of mine-sweeping work, one of the most precarious of war-time activities, may be the explanation for the sudden dearth of fresh ship disasters today. Another factor, of course, was the curb placed upon ship sailings by the Netherlands and other neutral nations.

Today still brought no official confirmation of the exciting rumor that the German pocket battleship Deutschland, ranging "raider of the North Atlantic, had been captured.

The admiralty meanwhile belatedly confirmed that the 10,000-ton cruiser Belfast was damaged by a U-boat or mine off the entrance to the Firth of Forth Tuesday, with 20 sailors injured. The cruiser, it was added, is undergoing repairs.

Quiet was reported on the French-German front.

FIVE-DAY DIVORCE

HAVANA.—The thirty-day residence now required for a "mutual assent" divorce in Cuba will be reduced to five days if a majority bill introduced in the lower house recently is approved. The bill also eliminates the "red tape" which makes divorces for foreigners difficult despite the short period. Under the new law, application for divorces could be made before any judge or notary public and hearing for a final decree. Proponents of the bill see it as an important factor for increasing influx.

INTENDED PREY SINKS BRITISH U-BOAT HUNTER

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Camouflaged as a neutral merchantman, a 7000-ton armed British ship lurking for U-boats fell victim to its intended prey, German general headquarters said today in the following communique:

"One British 7000-ton submarine trap, disguised as a dutch ship, was destroyed by a U-boat."

On land and in the air, the bulletin added, "there was local scouting and artillery activity on some parts of the western front. The air force reconnoitered in central France."

Further details of the reported sinking of the submarine trap were not given.

include Tarver, Ramspeck, Pace, Peterson, Brown, Camp, Gibbs and Welch.

The problem of pay-as-you-go with taxes for about $2,250,000,000 of national defense next fiscal year frankly was presented by the president to get the nation's reaction. He pointed out the alternative of more borrowing. He was talking about a matter of principle, he said, and not politics, when reminded that next year was a campaign year which might find congress unwilling to boost taxes.

Makes Cryptic Remark

He called the villagers' attention to their failure to ask him for a new post office.

"And what have we got?" he queried. "We have got a little over a year left. I do not know that the next administration would give Warm Springs a new post office."

The president chuckled recently when reporters accepted a remark at the Thomas Jefferson Memorial dedication as an indication that he wants a third term. He again joked at Hyde Park, at the dedication of the new library, when his remarks were accepted as an indication of retirement.

ONE FIRE AN HOUR

PHILADELPHIA.—There are 8,760 hours in a year and last year Philadelphia had 8,760 fires, according to Chief Ross B. Davis, head of the fire bureau. Seventy-two lives and thousands of dollars in property were lost in the blazes, most of which were due to carelessness, the chief said.

Despite its one-an-hour record, however, Philadelphia won a national fire prevention award for 1938.

(the state) can't make their proof, I might say that Kuhn is the rankest kind of amateur bookkeeper but that has no bearing on this point."

The counts which the court said will certainly go to the jury for determination of the facts cover Kuhn's alleged pocketing of $500 intended as a fee for Attorney James D. C. Murray.

Murray says he never got it. Kuhn says he gave the $500 to William Ludette, a bond employee, to give to Murray. Ludette says he gave it to Murray's assistant and got a receipt. The receipt is supposed to have disappeared after Dewey's men seized the bond's papers and records, and Murray's clerk says he never got the money and so never issued a receipt.

The counts which the judge indicated he may decide to strike out cover $717 which Kuhn admits spending on Mrs. Camp. The state says she stole it by spending it on the woman but she—a state witness—testified that she returned $600 of it.

Blow To State

The biggest blow to the state was the dropping of an omnibus count alleging larcenies of $4,424. The figure had been changed four times in court by the state although it always remained the same in the indictment.

No session of court was held today. Judge Wallace announced he will not limit summations on Monday but suggested that "the remaining issues are clear cut and should require little argument." Should prolonged summations develop, the court will not charge the jury until Tuesday morning.

$6,000' DAMAGE SUIT RESULTS FROM CAR CRASH

Stanley Frazier, Ashville R. F. D., filed suit for $6,000 damages in Common Pleas Court Saturday against Clifton Reedy, 709 Bryden Road, Columbus.

The suit is based on an auto collision last August 2 on Route 23 about two miles north of South Bloomfield. Frazier, the petitioner, was riding in an auto driven by Ernest Barr. The petition alleges Reedy was negligent in the operation of his car, and it collided with the Barr car. Frazier was injured in the accident.

member of the technical advisory committee on insulation of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, shows that double glazing saves 13.3 to 21.8 pounds of coal per square foot of "conditioned" window annually, which means a reduction of 20 to 30 percent in the fuel bill. Numerous case histories have shown that this treatment will pay for itself in less than two heating seasons, according to Rogers.

Don't forget to turn off the water and drain the pipes leading to outside taps, and if you are so fortunate as to own a summer cottage drain off any water which may freeze in it, and put the boat away—or at least turn it upside down.

Don't Forget the Car

Winter's approach means, also, that you must pay some extra attention to the family car. Even the most modern job is likely to get temperamental in cold weather and refuse to start some frigid morning unless it has been given proper advance care. Matters to be tended to include changing of grease and oil, checking ignition points, spark plugs and battery, draining the radiator and putting in anti-freeze solution—and it's a good idea to see that the tire chains are in good condition and quickly available.

S. P. McMinn, editor of an automotive magazine, estimates that 20,000,000 car owners spend an average of $8 apiece to prepare their machines for cold weather driving.

Winter comes to the garden, too. Some plants and shrubs should be dug up and stored for the winter and others should be covered.

And, incidentally, you had better haul out your winter overcoat, if you haven't already, and see whether the moths have eaten any of it. Having thus "buttoned up" the overcoat, figuratively speaking, on house, car and body, you'll be ready to give King Winter a warm reception.

Ready For Strike

Amplifying the official statement, Bioff said the strike machinery would be set in motion today.

"Flying squadrons" will be posted at each studio ready to order union men off the job if the producers decide to remain steadfast in their refusal to grant the increase, he said.

In the meantime, he added, plans have been made to order a sympathy walkout of all motion picture projectionists in the United States and Canada, no member of the international alliance of theatrical stage and employees would be permitted to work. Thus, technicians and painters, "grips" and property men, carpenters and plasterers and every other craftsman in the industry would be ordered not to report for duty.

75 PICKAWAY FARM FAMILIES TO ATTEND OHIO BUREAU CONVENTION

COUNTY ALSO TO APPEAR WITH CHORUS OF 1000

Annual Assembly Opens At Columbus Wednesday For Two Days

FINE PROGRAM OFFERED

Boys And Girls To Play Prominent Roles In Convention

Pickaway County Farm Bureau officials estimate about 75 families from this county plan to attend sessions of the 21st annual convention of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to be held in Columbus next Wednesday and Thursday.

Pickaway County's delegates to the convention are Homer Reber, Walnut Township, and T. M. Glick, Circleville Township, James Swearingen and S. B. Chambers, both of Circleville, are alternates.

Approximately 30 from the county will take part in the 1,000-voice chorus to sing Wednesday evening. The county group is under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Reber, Walnut Township.

Radio entertainment, talks by state and national leaders, conferences for youth and farm women, discussion sessions and recreation are among the varied highlights of the convention. A crowd of approximately 3,000 rural folk are expected at the convention.

Officers reports will occupy the morning session at Memorial Hall on Wednesday, while the annual Youth Conference session will be held at the same time in the grand ballroom of the Neil House. L. F. Warbington, of the Ohio Farm Bureau education department, will be general discussion leader for the Youth Conference, and Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the organization will be the principal speaker. "Why Cooperative Action by Youth?" is the conference theme.

The youth will convene with the general convention session at Memorial Hall in the afternoon when Edward A. O'Neal, of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Lincoln will be the principal speakers. "Problems Facing the American Farmer" will be O'Neal's subject and Lincoln will speak on "The Program of Action for 1940."

Wednesday evening session of the convention will be held at the Columbus Auditorium. The program for this session will include music by Farm Bureau bands, presentation of awards for attendance and organization achievement, singing by the statewide Farm Bureau chorus under the direction of Lyle Straight, Bloomington, Ill., an address by Dr. Henry Hitt Crain, of Detroit, entertainment by WLW radio artists, folk game demonstrations by cooperative youth councils and dancing for everybody.

Mrs. C. E. Josephson, Tiffin, chairman of Home and Family department of the Ohio Council of Churches, will be the speaker for the annual women's breakfast, to be held in the Neil House, ballroom, Thursday morning.

On the program of the Thursday morning general convention session will be short talks by directors of various Ohio Farm Bureau service departments, a memorial service and addresses by Mrs. Raymond Sayre, chairman of the women's committee of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, and Mr. Lincoln.

Official delegates to the convention, representing county farm bureaus throughout the state, will hold their annual business session on Thursday afternoon in the Neil House ballroom. Resolutions for the coming year will be adopted at this session.

SAMUEL MARTIN FUNERAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Samuel Martin, 60, farmer, who was found dead in bed at his home near Commercial Point Friday morning, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the A. J. Hott Funeral Home in Commercial Point. Burial will be in Jackson Township Cemetery. Death was due to heart disease.

Mr. Martin is survived by his widow, Mary; one daughter, Mrs. Maggie Wilkinson; two brothers, James and Marion, and a sister, Mrs. Bessie Armentrout.

The counts which the court said will certainly go to the jury for determination of the facts cover Kuhn's alleged pocketing of $500 intended as a fee for Attorney James D. C. Murray.

Murray says he never got it. Kuhn says he gave the $500 to William Ludetke, a bond employee, to give to Murray. Ludetke says he gave it to Murray's assistant and got a receipt. The receipt is supposed to have disappeared after Dewey's men seized the bond's papers and records, and Murray's clerk says he never got the money and so never issued a receipt.

The counts which the judge indicated he may decide to strike out cover $717 which Kuhn admits spending on Mrs. Camp. The state says he stole it by spending it on the woman but she—a state witness—testified that she returned $600 of it.

member of the technical advisory committee on insulation of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, shows that double glazing saves 13.3 to 21.8 pounds of coal per square foot of "conditioned" window annually, which means a reduction of 20 to 30 percent in the fuel bill. Numerous case histories have shown that this treatment will pay for itself in less than two heating seasons, according to Rogers.

Don't forget to turn off the water and drain the pipes leading to outside taps, and if you are so fortunate as to own a summer cottage drain off any water which may freeze in it, and put the boat away—or at least turn it upside down.

Don't Forget the Car

Winter's approach means, also, that you must pay some extra attention to the family car. Even the most modern job is likely to get temperamental in cold weather and refuse to start some frigid morning unless it has been given proper advance care. Matters to be tended to include changing of grease and oil, checking ignition points, spark plugs and battery, draining the radiator and putting in anti-freeze solution—and it's a good idea to see that the tire chains are in good condition and quickly available.

S. P. McMinn, editor of an automotive magazine, estimates that 20,000,000 car owners spend an average of $8 apiece to prepare their machines for cold weather driving.

Winter comes to the garden, too. Some plants and shrubs should be dug up and stored for the winter and others should be covered.

And, incidentally, you had better haul out your winter overcoat, if you haven't already, and see whether the moths have eaten any of it. Having thus "buttoned up the overcoat," figuratively speaking, on house, car and body, you'll be ready to give King Winter a warm reception.

creases at this time," the union representatives, after issuing a statement to the effect that unless the demands are met by today, a "general strike throughout the entire industry will be called."

Ready For Strike

Amplifying the official statement, Boff said the strike machinery would be set in motion today.

"Flying squadrons" will be posted at each studio ready to order union men off the job if the producers decide to remain steadfast in their refusal to grant the increase, he said.

In the meantime, he added, plans have been made to order a sympathy walkout of all motion picture projectionists in the United States and Canada, no member of the international alliance of theatrical stage and employees would be permitted to work. Thus, technicians and painters, "grips" and property men, carpenters and plasterers and every other craftsman in the industry would be ordered not to report for duty.
